Real Civil War

By Arthur Brisbane

W. H. Moseley, Jr., representing a great American bank, went through Mexico to see what he could see. This paragraph from his report will interest you:

"The Mexican government hauled our train free of charge while in the Republic. I have never seen a train run on better schedule time."

The Mexican government can own railroads and run them on time. Why can't the United States government do that? Answer: Because the super-government which is organized finance, won't allow it.

The International Reform Bureau, which wants birds to stop singing, flowers to stop blooming and human beings to sit indoors and mope on Sunday, is actually taking itself seriously.

The gentlemen need to be told what the old lady in the English public house told the bartender as he put water beside her glass of gin. "Young man, I have trouble enough without drinking water."

The people of this country, after the war, the profiteers and a few other things, have trouble enough without being told that they cannot take a deep breath or hit a golf ball, or watch a moving picture or baseball game on the seventh day.

The Bible says that on the seventh day "God ended his work which he had made; and he RESTED on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

"And God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it."

There is nothing in the Bible to show that God BORED Himself on the seventh day, and there is nothing to show that He wants His creatures, whose lives are hard enough already, to add a day of unnecessary boredom to six days of hard work.

And, anyhow, when the Lord set apart the seventh day, the idea was that Adam and Eve would behave themselves, and have all the seven days in the week without work or worry.

It was the snake that caused trouble, brought in the clothing industry, condemned man to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow and caused the woman's sentence, "In sorrow thou shalt bring forth children."

If anybody is to be caged up and miserable on Sunday, it ought to be the snake, not descendants of the female victim of his wiles.

Allan A. Ryan, whom the Stock Exchange cornered after he had cornered the stock exchange, will have his interests directed by Samuel Untermyer, and those interests will be DIRECTED.

Wonderful things an able lawyer can do. Untermyer would have directed the camel through the eye of the needle, first directing him to a hardware store that carried needles of the right size.

A good lawyer is a good thing, but the best thing for Allan Ryan would be to sit down and write now for publication, after the fashion of Tom Lawson, what he, Ryan, knows about Wall Street methods. After the second instalment some mysterious force would pick up Ryan and his financial problem and gently waft them over the chasm to safe high ground. Like the gambler caught cheating, the Stock Exchange would say, "I know it, but I don't like to be told about it."

Mrs. Ewing, Red Cross worker of Cleveland, says that poor girls wearing cotton stockings are ostracised socially in high school. She had to take her daughter away from the Cleveland public school and send her to school where plain clothes and cotton stockings were considered no disgrace.

Foolish parents in Cleveland and elsewhere, through stupidity and misguided affection for their children, are laying the foundation of unhappiness for those children in years to come.

That a child in school should depend for its "social respectability" not on the inside of its own head, but on stockings made of the insides of a silkworm, is a dismal comment on American democracy.

Lenin tells his followers at Moscow that a real revolution, necessary to the final triumph of Bolshevism, has not come as quickly as he hoped, but he thinks it will come.

Is the world ready for revolution when the beginning of financial independence creates a longing for silk stockings and silk shirts instead of a longing for education?

The world needs new ideals and different human beings much more than it needs a made-to-order revolution. What good would a revolution be to the monkeys in the Amazon? They would still be monkeys.

Civil war in Ireland is a serious reality. Buildings are burned and men shot from ambush on both sides. The worst feature is the suffering and terror of poor people, guilty of no offense against anybody, driven from their burned homes in a war of reprisals.

Gilbert K. Chesterton, English writer wants to know what difference, if any, exists between "England and Prussia." The chief difference is, he thinks, that Prussia was misgoverned by means of education, and England is misgoverning Ireland by means of [illegible]

DEMPSEY TO FIGHT WILLARD

15-Round Title Bout Set for March in New York City

By W. S. FARNSWORTH
(Sporting Editor of the New York American)

New York, Dec. 1.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, will meet Jess Willard, from whom he won the championship, at Madison Square Garden in a fifteen-round bout [illegible] on the evening of March 17, 1921.

For some reason or other this news has been suppressed by all hands concerned—Dempsey, his manager, Jack Kearns, Willard and Promoter Tex Rickard. The writer, however, learned the details today.

For the opportunity of winning the championship on July 4, 1919, from

RECEIVER ASKED FOR LOWELL TEXTILE CO.

A bill asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Lowell Textile Company of North Chelmsford was filed in the Equity Court before Judge George W. Anderson today by Clarence N. Frohlich and William W. Barbour, cotton brokers of Memphis, Tenn. It alleges that the complainants sold to the defendant company $60,891 worth of cotton for manufacture, and that the company has refused to pay. Monday was set for hearing.

D'ANNUNZIO VOLUNTEERS CAPTURE FOOD VESSEL

Rome, Dec. 1.—Gabriele d'Annunzio's volunteers at Fiume have seized the steamship Marenta, laden with flour, cheese and other foodstuffs for the Italian regular troops surrounding Fiume, according to a dispatch to the War Office today. General Caviglia, commander of the government troops, has notified d'Annunzio that a strict blockade will be imposed within twenty-four hours unless the legionaires serving under d'Annunzio surrender.

Refused Drink, Kills Two in Saloon

By International News Service.

Passaic, N. J., Dec. 1.—Refused a drink of whiskey and given a glass of "near beer" instead, a patron of a saloon here early today became enraged and "shot up" the place, killing two customers and seriously wounded the proprietor.

The customers who were killed were Antony Gronitz and Andrew Barensky. The proprietor of the saloon, who was seriously wounded, was Frank Mokowsky.

Shephen Paduch was arrested and identified as the man who did the shooting.

DELAND READY TO JAIL VETS

Says British, French and Italian Heroes Here Must Pay $5 Poll Tax

Veterans of [illegible] Italian armies here who have asserted that they will go to jail before they pay the $5 poll tax probably will have to make good their threat, according to Frank S. Deland, city collector.

Referring to the report that three camps of British veterans have agreed to refuse to pay the poll tax, levied by the State to pay in part the $100 bonus to its own fighting men, Deland said today that these men have been sent their poll tax bills, and that warrants would be issued for their arrest unless the payment was made on time.

"A number of warrants will be issued about the middle of this month," continued Mr. Deland, "and, if these chaps are among those who have defaulted, they undoubtedly will be served.

"They have my sympathy though I am bound by the law to carry out certain routine procedure.

"The theory of the act, of course, was that veterans who participated in the bonus should not be compelled to pay part of it.

"It seems unfortunate that brothers in arms, as they were to our fighters, should be forced to contribute to the bonus paid the Yankees. I personally know of several pathetic cases. One that I have in mind was of a chap who had been shot through the stomach, stabbed in the throat and sliced through the arm by German bayonets, yet he had to pay the tax."

Deland said that so far he has not received any formal protest from any organization of British or allied veterans, but that many individual protests have reached his office.

The American British Federation has appointed John Calder Gordon to call upon Governor Coolidge and ask that collection of the tax be delayed until the Legislature can act.

RED FLAG RAISED; TOWN SEIZED NEAR LONDON

London, Dec. 1.—An army of unemployed, more than 1,000 strong, today marched on the centre of Edmonton, a town of Middlesex eight miles from London, seized the town hall as their headquarters and raised the red flag. The jobless men and women then presented a set of demands to the town councillors and prevailed upon them to evacuate the city building.

TROOPS SEARCH EVERYBODY IN LONDON STREETS

Dublin, Dec. 1.—Troops occupied many of the streets today and held up and searched all pedestrians and cars.

Manufacturer Gives $100 to Basket Fund

A contribution of $100 has been made to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund by George D. Pushee, a member of the brush making firm of J. G. Pushee & Sons of this city.

A highly commendatory letter accompanied Mr. Pushee's donation. He wrote to the Basket Fund editor: "I am taking this occasion to enclose you my check for $100 in aid of the very good work that you are doing at this time.

"It is certainly comforting to givers in times like these to know that the whole of their gift will be used for the object for which it is subscribed, and your enterprise seems to me to stand out in relief as against some other charitable organizations who have to employ salaried dispensers for their funds.

"The object of this letter is more in the nature of a compliment to you than 'knock' for charitable organisations, the greater part of which are not as fortunate as you in being able to distribute their funds without expended to their subscribers and along

LOST SON SOUGHT BY WIDOW

Offers Reward to Find Former Harvard Student Who Vanished in April

New York, Dec. 1.—Mrs. J. Schenck Remsen, a widow, with a home in the fashionable section of exclusive Whitestone, L. I., today sent out another appeal to the press and police of the country to aid her in finding her missing son, Howard Foster, twenty-[illegible] who disappeared from his home last April.

Young Foster is a former Harvard student. Not a word has been heard from him except for a single letter in which he wrote his mother that he judged it best to leave home because of the attitude of his own father, a former husband of Mrs. Remsen, whom she divorced many years ago.

The boy's father is Marcellus E. Foster, chief stockholder and general manager of the Houston Post, of Houston, Texas, and Mrs. Remsen blames him for the mysterious disappearance of her son.

The father tried some time ago to have Howard go to a sanitarium for mental treatment, offering to pay all expenses.

This offer was repected by both the boy and his mother, and Mrs. Remsen

U. S. Loses Millions Aiding Exchange

Washington, Dec. 1.—The United States government has lost a vast sum, estimated at between one and two hundred million dollars, in an endeavor to hold up the depreciated currency of Great Britain and other countries with which she was allied in the war, treasury officials revealed today.

For this loss she has neither been reimbursed nor even officially thanked.

The extent to which the United States supported European and Far Eastern Currency is shown by the fact that, when the armistice was signed and this support was largely withdrawn, "The bottom fell out" of the exchange market as one treasury official expressed it.

How vast have been the losses of the United States is revealed by the following incident. On April 12, 1918, a severe panic occured in India, owing to the disappearance of silver, which is the basis of her currency, and the flood of paper rupees issued by the British government. The run on silver supporting the paper money reduced the reserve $40,000,000.

In this extremity the British government appealed to the United States for relief, representing that the situation which started in a financial panic threatened to develop into a revolt that would sweep away every vestage of British authority in India.

Thereupon President Wilson, against the advice of many Congressional leaders, rushed through Congress a bill now known as the Pittman Act. It provided for the melting down of $350,000,000 in American silver dollars and the sale of the bullion abroad at the fixed price of $1 an ounce.

Of this amount 267,000,000 ounces were sold to the British government for use in India. The rest went to France and other European countries. The price of silver was at that time well above the price of $1, and ultimately reached around $1.35 an ounce.

The Pittman act provided that the $350,000,000 in silver should be replaced by purchases from American producers at the same price of $1 an ounce. In the meantime the price of silver has fallen lower and lower, until recently it was quoted in the open market at 65 cents an ounce. Nevertheless the government is required by law to pay $1 an ounce until the purchase of 350,000,000 ounces is complete.

Officials close to the President when questioned concerning the Indian transaction, admitted the huge cost to this government, but declared that President Wilson was entirely justified by the critical position in which our ally, Great Britain, was at the time placed.

They pointed out that nothing less drastic than the Pittman act could have saved Great Britain from complete collapse and a series of colonial revolts that would have wrecked her empire.

HARDING AND PARTY OFF HAITI ON RETURN

Aboard Steamship Pastores, Dec. 1 (by radio).—The steamship bearing President-elect Harding's party to Norfolk, was not far off Haiti today, but Senator Harding refused to comment on the request of the President of Haiti for a congressional investigation into the American military administration of the island republic. Senator Harding said that if the matter is still open when he takes office next March he may consider including an investigation of Haitian affairs in the work of a commission he intends appointing to consider the administration of American officials in "southern protectorates."

ADMIT AUSTRIA TO LEAGUE

Spain and Brazil Offer Aid to Wilson in Armenian Difficulty

By International News Service.

Geneva, Dec. 1.—The League of Nations committee on applications for membership today voted unanimously to admit Austria to the League. Austria thus becomes the first member among the former enemies of the allies.

Lord Robert Cecil, representative of South Africa, declared that President Wilson's acceptance of the invitation to act as mediator between Turkey and Armenia raised hopes that the situation will soon be cleared.

"It is not yet certain, however, that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, leader of the Turkish Nationalists, will accept President Wilson," continued Lord Robert Cecil. "Therefore committee work for conciliation in the Near East will be continued."

The economic committee of the League of Nations assembly today adopted a resolution directing the league to continue its investigation with an ultimate view to the pooling of the world's natural resources.

Sir J. E. Foster of Canada, who opposed the resolution, said it was a death blow to hopes that the United Sates would enter the league.

The resolution was moved by M. Ador of Switzerland and was supported by Gabriel Hanotaux of France, Signor Feviario of Italy, Dr. Trygger of Sweden and Dr. Vestrepo of Colombia.

Mr. Collins of Australia and Mr. Allen of New Zealand also opposed the resolution.

Foster, who led the opposition, said that countries like the United States and Canada would never consent to the League of Nations interfering in their disposition of their natural resources.

"Even a discussion of this question will alarm the United States and kill all chance of America entering the league," said the Canadian.

Despite the reference to the United States, the members of the economic committe favoring the resolution said they were certain it would be adopted by the assembly.

WOMAN CRIPPLE DISAPPEARS

Wheel Chair Invalid, With One Leg Gone, Strangely Vanishes in Mattapan

The disappearance of a one-legged woman, whose other bodily infirmities are so many and so great that she was accustomed to move about in a wheel chair and seldom ventured out of doors unaccompanied, was reported today to the police of the Mattapan station.

The missing woman is Mrs. Jane England, who made her home with a brother, Charles Kelley, at No. 921 Blue Hill avenue, and their mother, a blind woman eighty-two years old.

Kelley reported his sister's disappearance to Captain James Watkins, saying that it took place sometime on Monday. When he went home that evening she was gone. His mother, who is deaf as well as blind, could give him no information as to the time when Mrs. England left the house.

CLERGY APPEAL TO FREE DOCTOR

Many Attend Hearing Before Pardon Board for Young Woburn Osteopath

Clergymen, heads of Charlestown State Prison and city officials of Woburn appeared before the pardons board of the Governor's Council at the State House today to plead for the parole of Dr. Eldridge D. Atwood, serving a life term for the slaying of Dr. Wilfred E. Harris in the celebrated "triangle murder" of 1916.

They based their plea not on justification of his act, but on grounds of mercy and compassion.

Rev. Stephen A. Norton, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Woburn, and for many years Atwood's religious adviser, was the first to speak in behalf of the young osteopath.

He declared that Atwood was sorry; that he had been a power for good in prison; that he would be a power for good outside; and that he would never be a menace to society.

"He is only twenty-seven now," argued the clergyman. "Four and one-half years in prison are as hard on a man of his refinement as a lifetime on a coarser man.

"Aside from the abberation which led him to this killing, his character is without blemish."

MANY PRESENT.

Others present to plead for Atwood were Herbert Dow, actuary for the New England Life Insurance Company; Mayor Bernard J. Golden of Woburn, ex-Mayors Harold F. Johnson and Wilford D. Gray of Woburn, Representative Samuel W. Mendun, former Repre-armored cars, in addition to small arms.

If conditions continue to grow worse, the government may declare martial law.

The casualties for 1919 and 1920 to date were listed as follows by the Irish office:

	Killed	Wounded
Police	167	231
Soldiers	47	103
Civilians, unlisted	123	..

NO FORMAL BLOCKADE.

While there has been no formal blockade of Ireland proclaimed, the navy is keeping vigilant watch and all the Irish coasts are patrolled continuously by strong forces of small naval boats.

The main object of the British naval patrol is to prevent gun-running and the fillibustering of munitions. In view of the steadily increasing arsenals of the Sinn Feiners, government officials are becoming convinced that arms and ammunition are being secured in the United States. It is believed that the war supplies are brought secretly from America to Scottish ports and reshipped on small coasting vessels which trade with the Donegal section.

POPE ENDORSES LOGUE.

"Pope Benedict XV. has signified his approval of the letter sent by Cardinal Logue, archbishop of Armagh, protesting against the latest wave of violence in Ireland and invoking conciliation in the Irish situation," said a Central News dispatch from Rome today.

Cardinal Logue and other members of the Roman Catholic clergy in Ireland addressed a communication to members of the Italian Parliament intimating that good results might ensue if a friendly power attempted mediation between England and Ireland.

It was reported from Dublin today that the Sinn Feiners in Ireland had called in all the munitions from the various secret arsenals. This indicated that the Irish volunteers had begun to mobilize, or at least were preparing to meet some move on the part of the British authorities at Dublin.

BIG CORK STORE BURNED.

The O'Gorman department store, one of the largest stores in Cork, was burned today. The fire brigade refused to respond to the alarm until armed policemen gave them protection.

A dispatch from Dublin says one man was killed an another fatally wounded in a Black and Tan raid on Ardee, in County Louth, early today. John O'Carroll, who was arrested, was shot in the back and his condition is critical. The body of Patrick Tierney was found on an ash heap riddled with bullets.

Arthur Henderson, M. P., who has arrived in Dublin at the head of a labor commission to investigate reprisals, is quoted today as saying he would attempt to bring about a joint conference representing all factions of the Irish to negotiate peace. "It is certain peace will not be lasting unless based upon the consent of all the people," he said.

Scotland Yard warned the government today another great demonstration of unemployed in London is being arranged and "terrorists and the criminal element may attempt to spread disorders."

Wife Defends Accused Man

Harry Brushingham, charged with perjury in attempting to get a job on the police force, and his five-months' old son, Harry, Jr.

There's no sign of holiday cheer—and mighty little food—in the little second-floor home at No. 1 Emerald street where Harry Brushingham and his girl wife and their five-months-old son, Harry, Jr., are gathered around the kitchen stove contemplating the future. Their future is a blank wilderness of misery and debt.

The tiny flat is bare as Mother Hubbard's cubbard, but it is scrupulously neat.

Mrs. Brushingham is a pretty dark-haired girl, whose eyes grow soft as they shift from her stalwart, clean-cut young husband to her chubby-faced baby. That her Thanksgiving feast consisted not of turkey, and that Christmas may be quite dinnerless doesn't worry her a bit. Even the vacant future doesn't make her cry. She has her husband and her baby and a sublime faith in both.

"I am going to stick to him. If he went to the chair I would stick to him," she declared smiling. "He's been a good husband and I have faith in him."

Brushingham, or Bresnahan as he has sometimes called himself, served in the 110th Cavalary and the 58th Field Artillery during the war.

"Six years ago, before I was married, I was sent to Concord Reformatory," he said. "I was drunk one night in Castle street when someone was robbed. I was walking along when a policeman touched me on the shoulder and told me to go with him. Until I reached the station I thought I was arrested for being drunk. Then I found I was charged with a robbery I did not commit. I did what my lawyers told me. I landed in Concord.

"I was married about a year ago and since then life has seemed a search for work. I learned that other men who had been in trouble had obtained places on the new police force and I decided to try for it.

"I passed the physical and mental examinations. Naturally I answered 'No' to the question as to whether I had ever been arrested. At that time I had a job in the market. One day Commissioner Curtis called me before him and told me to give up my job, that I had been accepted for the police force.

"I asked if my papers had been locked up, if everything was all right.

"'Certainly, we only look them up for three years back,' said Commissioner Curtis.

"I supposed everything was all right. Then one day I was sent for by the commissioner.

"'You have been in Concord,' he said. I told him I had.

"'Then we don't want you,' he said.

"I said very well. He said I must have a trial. I told him I didn't want one, that if he didn't want me, I was willing to get out and let it go at that."

HUNT FORMER HARVARD MAN

Mother of Howard Foster Offers Reward for Discovery of Missing Son induced her son to submit himself to an examination by four specialists at Roosevelt Hospital. At that time it was declared that there was no mental defect or weakness observable in him.

Later, says Mrs. Remsen, her son was hounded by detectives in the employ of his father, and on April 17 he disappeared.

Mrs. Ramsen has advertised in many papers all over the country, but so far has received nothing of value in her search for her son, although she is offering a "suitable reward."

Howard Foster is described as being five feet, seven inches tall, slender in build, medium dark complexion, hazel eyes, left hand amputated above the wrist. When he left home he was planning to camp out in the New Hampshire woods in an effort to regain his health.

ATTENDED HARVARD.

Howard Foster attended Harvard University in 1914 and 1915, his mother said. On account of ill health he went into the Maine woods hunting. He tripped over a vine, his gun was discharged, and the bullet struck his left wrist, making amputation of the hand necessary.

He disappeared in the Summer of 1919, Mrs. Remsen said, and was found on August 22 through a response to a newspaper advertisement. He was living alone in a shack in the woods near a small Maine town, near the Canadian border. She said he was "nearly starved to death." He had refused to associate with anyone there and Mrs. Rensen was notified of his presence by someone who had seen him, and noted that he answered the description of the missing man.

"I am very much afraid for him," Mrs. Remsen said. "He has never done any work. He had only $200 when he left. I have advertised in Canada, and put the advertisement in the Boston papers because Howard may have gone to New Hampshire or Vermont. He used to hunt in those places."

Mrs. Remsen thinks he may also have gone to Washington, where he lived for five years. She left Washington two years ago.

Mrs. Remsen said that her son had never been able to get along with his father.

MANY PLEAD FOR ATWOOD'S FREEDOM

sentative Fred J. Brown, former Representative Henry L. Andrews, President Charles A. Burdett of the Burdett Business College, Warden Elmer E. Shattuck of Charlestown State prison and Chaplain Whitney of the same institution.

The pardons committee consists of a majority of the Governor's Council. A recommendation for parole by the committee is therefore equivalent to parole.

The State Board of Pardons and Parole has already recommended that Dr. Atwood be released at once and his friends feel the young osteopath has a good chance.

Rev. Stephen A. Norton: "We believe the ends of justice have been served. The ends of punishment for an offence against morality are the protection of society and the reformation of the wrongdoer. Society would be placed in no possible danger by the release of Eldridge Atwood. He is as sorry as any man could be. He sees the error of his offence and asks humbly to be allowed to return to society."

Mr. Norton then read a letter from the Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell, for thirty years pastor of the First Congregational Church, Arlington, which Atwood some times attended. The Rev. Mr. Bushnell believed that the ends of justice had been served.

ASK CONSIDERATION OF AGE.

Continuing, the Rev. Mr. Norton said: "We ask you to believe that a young life is not best lived in the uselessness of confinement. We ask you to have consideration for his age.

"We do not ask you to consider that his age was a justification for the offence but on the ground that he still has opportunity of regaining his place in society and of redeeming the past."

Eldridge D. Atwood shot Dr. Harris, president of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, in the Hotel Westminster, July 8, 1916.

He pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. Explaining his motive, he told an amazing story of a love triangle in which he, his victim and Dr. Celia P. Adams figured.

Dr. Adams was a pretty young woman whom Atwood intended to marry. The night before the date set for the wedding she told him it could not be.

When he asked her why, she told him, he said, that she had been betrayed by Dr. Harris, middle-aged and married.

That night Celia Adams committed suicide in her office in Brookline. The next day Atwood sought Harris and killed him.

GREATER PRODUCTION URGED BY MILLIKEN

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 1.—Governors and Governors-elect from 27 States are gathered here for the twelfth annual conference for the discussion of legislative matters. They were given an informal reception by Governor and Mrs. William C. Sproul. More efficient production is the greatest need of the country according to Governor C. E. Milliken, of Maine. Governor Simon Bamberger, of Utah, said labor had overplayed its hand and has begun to realize it. He said efficiency was the new password in industry.

CLAIMS CONCORD STREET RAILWAY NEEDS HELP

Concord, Mass., Dec. 1.—According to D. P. Abercrombie, vice-president and general manager, the Concord, Maynard and Hudson Street Railway, unless legislative assistance for the road is passed, the system will be unable to continue. He outlined legislation along the lines of the Boston Elevated as the best way to restore credit. Under such a plan, the five towns served by the road would probably be assessed at the most $10,000. He went on to say that expectations are for a reduction in the cost of operating and the outlook is favorable that the income will increase.

Buy Lemons Now
Low Prices at Good Stores all this Weel
See What Lemons Do

Wholesalers and retailers now have plenty of fine California lemons purchased at very reasonable prices, so retailers can now offer you excellent bargains in this useful fruit. Take this opportunity to learn the many ways, other than in cooking, in which lemons can serve in your household. You'll be surprised and delighted, if you haven't already tried lemons as suggested here.

Ask for California Sunkist Lemons, which are uniformly good. Send coupon for free book.

Use Them to Beautify the Hands

Rinse with Lemon
Squeeze the juice of one lemon into a quart of water and rinse the hair with that after shampooing. Soap forms a curd which otherwise stays on the hair. Water won't remove it. The lemon juice cuts that curd. Try it, then feel the hair—that is proof enough. All the best "Beauty Shops" rinse that way.

Soft, White Attractive Hands
Lemon juice is Nature's dainty lotion, the whitener that millions use to make soft, white, pretty hands. No need any longer to hide your hands from other's view—you're glad to use them now where everyone can see. If yours are pretty now, 'twill keep them so.

Keep a half lemon handy in a saucer. Try it for a few days, rubbing half a lemon over the hands night and morning.

To Stop a Cold
When you have the feeling of a cold, take hot lemonade at once—don't wait for chills.
Cover up warm in bed, and stay warm. That will stop nine colds in ten.

PURISTS IN DRIVE ON CONGRESS TO REVIVE OLD BLUE LAWS

"Taking the Sun Out of Sunday"

THE EXECUTION

WOULD BAN SUNDAY SHAVES

Reformers, Following Colonial Code, Would Stop All Trains and Labor

National blue laws aimeed at outdoing the far famed code of the Pilgrim Fathers in Massachusetts are due to come before the next session of Congress when it gathers in Washington December 4.

The first bill which will be submitted for the consideration of the House Committee on the District of Columbia is the Temple-Jones measure, fathered by Henry W. Temple of Pennsylvania. The bill seeks to "protect the Lord's Day, commonly known as Sunday, and to secure its observances as a day of rest."

The next move of the International Reform Bureau and the Lord's Day Alliance, should that measure pass Congress, will be to extend its provisions, aimed at first only at the District of Columbia, to all military and naval reservaions, insular possessions, American embassies and consulates in foreign countries.

Interstate Sunday trains would come under the ban, Sunday transport of mails would be stopped and all baseball, golf and auto riding would come to an abrupt halt, if the Bureau and the Alliance have their way.

At the twenty-sixth anniverasry meeting of the Bureau to held in Washington, December 8, 9 and 10, plans are to be outlined for making the world strictly moral, according to the idea of the Bureau leaders. These plans include personal visits to every Congressman and Senator who will be warned just what to expect if they venture to oppose the measures.

THE ANTI PROGRAM.

The program contains proposals for anti-liquor, anti-gambling, anti-licentiousness, anti-cigarette and anti-Sunday desecration laws, according to the Rev. Henry Pringle, assistant superintendent and star sleuth of the International Reform Bureau.

Out in Kansas they have started an anti-cigarette crusade and at last reports more than a score of arrests have been made of dealers violating the strict laws against the sale of the "fag."

The Lord's Day Alliance which is at one with the other reform organizations in its determination to take the "Sun out of Sunday," is planning to put on a rigid ban against the use of automobiles for pleasure on the Sabbath, to close all moving picture theatres, to stop all concerts, to shut all stores, place a cast iron embargo upon all amusement resorts, forbid Sunday baseball games, outlaw golf and confine American activity to the "reverential" parade from home to church and back again.

While the backers of the Alliance and the Bureau will not say so in so many set terms they do not deny they are modeling their proposed bills much upon the code of the Puritans of the old Massachusetts colony. And that was a code that covered everything. If you don't believe it read it for yourself at the Boston Library, but in case you are busy, here are some of the provisions enacted by the "General Court" of the old colony along about 1640:

"No citizen of this colony shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep houses, cut their hair or shave upon the Sabbath Day."

And that just started it. No woman —or man either for the matter of that—was allowed to kiss a child upon the Sabbath, nor could any child run upon the Sabbath, nor could his father walk in the garden upon the Sabbath, or go elsewhere except reverently to and from ye meeting.

COURTING BANNED.

No minister was alowed to teach school, and no man was allowed to court a maid either in person or by letter without the express permision of her parents on the penalty of a five pound fine for the first offense, ten pounds for the secon and a prison term for the third.

And whether it suited one's style of beauty or not, whether one preferred to have his hair long over the ears and cut short behind, he had to have the Puritan hair cut of the period, especially prescribed for all by the law of the land, which said:

"Every male shall have his hair cut round according to a cap."

The cap was drawn c ose around the head and the hair then cut along the edge of the cap. A pumpkin cut in half and hollowed out was sometimes used in place of a cap.

Another law provided that "whosoever shall profanely sweare or curse by the name of God or any of His titles, attributes, words or works, upon proofe thereof made by sufficient testimony or confession of the party, he shall pay for every such default 12 pence, or be set in the stocks so that it exceed not the space of three hours, or put in prison, according to the nature and quality of the person."

And a law which is said to have been the basis for the anti-cigarette regulation of Kansas and elsewhere, the blue laws forbade any person "from taking tobacco whilst they are empanelled upon a jurie" on pain of a five shilling fine.

Tobacco ranked with swearing in the estimation of the Pilgrim Fathers, who were particularly severe with such as loved the weed "not wisely but too well." For instance:

PURITANS AND SMOKING.

"Whereas there is great abuse in the taking of tobacco in a very uncivil manner in the streets and dangerously in outhouses, it is therefore enacted that any person found taking tobacco publickly in the open streets of any Towne (unless it be soldiers in the time of their tranynings), or in or about barnes, stoules, hay stacks, corne stacks, hay yards or the like, shall be made to paye 12 pence for the first default, 11 shillings for the second and so for each default thereafter."

The solace of a pipe after the meeting was forbidden the Pilgrim Father, who was not allowed to smoke either going to or coming from church within two miles of the meeting house.

One thing the Blue Laws did which the proposed reform measures will NOT do. The Pilgrims Fathers liked their liquor strong and their law makers saw to it that the inn and public house keepers served only the best. The same clause that banned "dauncing and singing," ordered the inn keeper and "ordinary keepers" to keep "good beer in their houses to sell by retail and that some one in every towne be appointed to see that the beer they sell be suitable strong to the price they charge."

Better than that another clause provided that "no rum shall be sold in this gov'ment to exceed in prise above five shillings a gallon, or if retailed, two pence the gill."

Couldn't Kiss Puritan Babes on Sunday

From the blue laws of Puritan times in Massachusetts.

No one to cross a river but with an authorized ferryman.

No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep house, cut hair or shave on the Sabbath day.

No woman shall kiss her child on the Sabbath or fasting day.

No one shall run on the Sabbath day, or walk in his garden, or elsewhere, except reverently to and from meeting.

No one shall buy or sell lands without permission of the selectmen.

FRANCE FIGHTS AGAINST ZIONISTS IN PALESTINE

Paris, Dec. 1.—Fear of the realization of the Zionist dream of a Hebraic republic in Palestine lies behind the flat refusal of France, on Monday, of Great Britain's request that she be allowed to divert for irrigation purposes the River Leitani which flows toward the sea in Syria just north of the Holy Land border.

France's deadly antagonism to the Jews is evidenced by many of her policies, including her hatred of the Soviets, the support of Poland and her treatment of the Hebrew elements in Asia Minor. It is seen again in her declination of the moderate request of Sir Herbert Samuels, high commissioner at Palestine.

PONZI LIKELY TO DRIVE AUTO

Sheriff Blake Plans Task to Allow Convicted Man Great Freedom

Charles Ponzi, who begins his five-yar sentence next week for using the mails to defraud in his get-rich-quick scheme, will be afforded every liberty permitted a model prisoner at the Plymouth House of Correction.

Sheriff Earl P. Blake, keeper of the Obrey Heights "family," says that he will make the former promoter his chauffeur if he possesses a license. This "honor" will allow Ponzi to travel about Plymouth and accompany the sheriff wherever he goes.

Ponzi begins his sentence in one of the finest institutions of its kind in the East, where the "trusty" system has been in force for years. Sheriff Blake allows the less dangerous of the prisoners to use whatever talent they possess to the advantage of the institution.

During the Summer months the prisoners devote their time to garden and farm work.

"I have an idea that Ponzi will be a model prisoner, says Sheriff Blake. "Without doubt all the liberties accorded to prisoners will be subject to his command and merits as a prisoner.

There are now but fifty-two prisoners at the House of Correction, which is situated on one of the highest sites in Plymouth and overlooks the bay.

'RED HAIR' MAN IN HAMON CASE

Alleged Woman Slayer of Politician Believed to Have Fled to Texas

Ardmore, Okla., Dec. 1.—The woman who is sought the country over for the shooting of Jake L. Hamon, Republican National Committeeman, who died of his wound last Friday, tried too hard to cover the trail of her flight from this town eight days ago.

The fear that she might be apprehended was so great that Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon, the committeeman's beautiful secretary, exposed her method of escape by the very elaborateness with which she sought to conceal it. The woman, accompanied by her sister and by a "red-haired man," motored out of Ardmore the evening of November 22, the day after the millionaire politician was shot in one of the adjoining rooms she and he occupied in the Randel Hotel here.

With something like $10,000 in her handbag and equipped with a pair of automatic pistols, she bounded over the night roads of Oklahoma, fifty-five miles, arriving late in the town of Durant. Here the "red-haired man" left her. It is believed she fled into Texas.

The "red-haired man" becomes a new and possibly sinister figure in the story. He accompanied her on her flight from Ardmore. He later appeared in town and served as a sort of emissary for the dying politician. He was seen frequently about the Hardy Sanitarium, where Mr. Hamon died last Friday.

County Attorney Brown believes that it will be possible to find the woman within several days.

Two Blacks Tell New Ones on 'Scottie'

Professor Charlton Black of Boston University uncorked several new stories at the St. Andrew's night dinner of the Scots Charitable Society at the City Club.

"Not many years ago," Professor Black said, "several old grads of Scottish universities got together in Boston and, in the course of their confab, discussed the best possible answer to the question: 'What is a Scotsman?' I am not at liberty to name the prize, but it was of a character dear to the Scottish heart.

"My own definition was that the Scot is 'a man with whom you must agree in debate or kill him.' I thought that not half bad, but the prize winner was: 'A Scotsman is an animal unreasonably reasoning, generally upright, always thirsty and always asking questions.'

Illustrative of Scottish caution, Professor Black told about the two fishermen who were caught off the coast in a dense fog.

Donald being well known for his piety, Sandy begged him to go into the bow of the boat and pray for their speedy deliverance.

"No sooner was the prayer began than the fog began to lift, whereupon Sandy calls out: 'Hold up, Donald! I see the land—we won't be beholden to anybody!' "

Then there was the tale of the gloomy bridegroom.

"Man, dear," says his friend, "what's the matter with ye, Sandy? Have ye lost the ring?"

"No," says Sandy deliberately, "I'm losin' ma enthusiasm."

Another story teller was the Rev. Archibald Black, assistant pastor of the Old South Church, who, to illustrate Scottish independence, told of the one boy in the Sunday school who failed to raise his hand when the pupils were asked, "How many of you boys and girls want to go to heaven?"

"Don't you want to go to heaven, Johnny?" asked the pastor.

"Not if all that crowd is going," answered Johnny.

"But the true Scot is cautious, too," said the Rev. Mr. Black. "You may recall the yarn about the fellow who, having been courting fourteen years, finally escorted his lady to the family lot in the village graveyard and, pointing to the enclosure, said:

"Well, Sal, here is where all my people lie; how would you like to be buried here?"

Of course there had to be a story about the Scot and the Irishman.

"After spending all their money on Saturday night in a public house," said Mr. Black, "Sandy and Pat went home together, carrying with them a bottle of whiskey intended to last over the Sunday.

"Restless after going to bed, and observing that Pat was fast asleep, Sandy crept to the cupboard and drank all the whiskey.

"Pat awoke a little later and, thinking Sandy was sleep, crept to the cupboard in his turn.

" 'What are ye looking for?' asks Sandy, sitting up in the bed.

" 'Nothin',' says Pat.

" 'Well, says Sandy, 'ye'll find that in the bottle.

MEXICO'S CHIEF NOW OBREGON

Many Americans Present at Inauguration of President in Mexico City

Mexico City, Dec. 1.—General Alvaro Obregon was inaugurated President of Mexico today, succeeding Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta. The ceremonies began at midnight.

A large number of Americans, including the Governors of three States, witnessed the ceremonies. There are more Americans in the capital today than at any other time in ten years.

The city is in gala attire with flags and bunting. Business was suspended to give everyone a holiday. There was a big display of fireworks beginning before midnight and the principal streets and buildings were all illuminated.

General Calles, former minister of war, will be chief of the new cabinet. Senor de la Huerta has consented to accept the post of minister of the treasury.

Mexico Invited to Draft U. S. Treaty

Washington, Dec. 1.—Secretary of State Colby made public the text of a letter to Robert Pesqueira, special envoy from Mexico, inviting the Mexican government to agree to a joint commission to draft a new treaty between the United States and Mexico as a preliminary to recognition by this government.

The secretary's communication, which Pesqueira filed with the State Department a few weeks ago, in which assurances were given that the new regime in Mexico would adopt no retroactive measures against American property interests.

CUTS IN PRICES GOOD SIGN

Coincident Reopening of Mills Points Normalcy Trend, Say Business Men

With the Blackstone Woolen Mill at Chepachet following the example of other mills through Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and starting operations on full time, local students on business conditions today are pointing to reports of reductions in the prices of coal, iron, steel, food and clothing as sure signs that the reconstruction period is bringing the country back to a normal economic basis.

A. H. Decatur of Boston, speaking at the convention of the National Hardware Association in St. Louis, as president of the Automobile Accessories Branch of the association, declared that prices in that line are bound for a still further drop.

Portland, Me., meat dealers reported cuts on almost all kinds of meats of from 4 to 10 cents per pound, with pork products leading in the reduction.

BROCKTON WAGE CUT.

Steel products also are being reduced in price, Pittsburgh reporting a cut of fifty cents per hundred pounds in steel wire products, including nails, staples and fencing.

At Reading, Pa., the iron puddlers who have been on a five months' strike have accepted the terms of the employers and have gone to work for $16.25 a ton.

In Brockton the shoe workers have called a mass meeting to consider the offer of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, which menas a cut of from 10 to 30 per cent. in wages.

The Copper Range Company at Houghton, Mich., has announced a cut of prices for coal and in rents to its employes, as well as a drop in wages.

COMMODITIES LOWER.

The monthly circular of the National City Bank of New York insists that wages as well as commodities must come down.

Twelve basic commodities have been cut 33.5 per cent. since May, according to this circular which quotes Bradstreet's and the Federal Labor Board's figures.

The board's estimates are based upon 325 commodities and show that October prices on all these were an average of 7 per cent. below the September figures.

The American Exchange National Bank of New York declares that "much progress has been made in readjustment, both commercial and financial, that the situation is well in hand, and that the purchasing power of the public would continue to dwindle unless those who persist in holding goods for a recovery could be persuaded to liquidate."

HULTMAN ASKS PROBE TO LOWER COAL PRICE

Eugene C. Hultman, fuel administrator, has written to Senator William M. Calder of New York, chairman of the special congressional committee on reconstruction and production, urging the committee to begin at once to find out the source of what he calls the "independent" coal supply. This would, he asserts, do much toward bringing down the price of coal. He would have the committee call together all dealers charging more than $9.50 per ton, f. o. b., the mines. Mr. Hultman, with all other New England fuel administrators and governors, has been asked to attend a meeting of the committee Thursday in New York.

HARVARD GLEE CLUB TO LEAVE FOR WEST DEC. 22

Sixty members of the Harvard Glee Club will start on a Western trip Wednesday evening, December 22. The initial concert takes place the following evening in Cleveland, after which four days will be spent in Chicago. The club will go to Winnetka, December 27, to sing for school children, returning in time for a concert in Orchestra Hall, under the auspices of the Harvard Club of Chicago. Other cities will be visited.

WILSON COMPLETING MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 1.—President Wilson has nearly completed his forthcoming message to Congress—in all probability the last lengthy communication he will make to that body The President has pecked out the major part of his message on the dilapidated typewriter. It was still undertermined today whether the President will attempt to deliver his message in person. White House officials asserted they did not know. It apparently depends a great deal on the President himself. His condition it was said is so much improved that it will be possible for him to take the dais next Monday if he so desires, although some of his closest confidents have advised against it.

TWO NURSES DROP TEN FEET IN AUTO

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 1.—Eva Fortier and Anna Hurley, nurses employed in the Amoskeag mills, escaped without serious injury when an automobile in which they were riding skidded on Canal street and crossing the sidewalk crashed through a fence and dropped ten feet to the Boston & Maine railroad tracks. Miss Fortier was cut about the head and both women were shaken up and bruised. The machine was wrecked.

AUTOS COLLIDE, WRECK BACK BAY BARBER'S POLE

A large pole in front of a barber shop at No. 334 Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay, was wrecked and several lights of glass shrttered when an automobile was thrown to the sidewalk in collision with another today. Inside the pole was a clock which showed different colors. The snapping of the pole caused the mechanism of the clock to act peculiarly and convulse spectators with laughter.

SHIP WRECKED, EIGHT DEAD

Captain's Baby and 21 of Crew Missing in Disaster Off Oregon

By International News Service.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 1.—The steel schooner-barge W. J. Pirrie went down in the teeth of a seventy-mile southeast gale five hours after she had been set adrift by the steamship Santa Rita in Friday night's storm off the Washington coast.

This story was told by one of the two Chilean survivors of the wreck, according to wireless advices to the International News Service today from Clallam Bay.

Eight bodies were found on the beach at Cape Johnson, among them Captain Alfred Jensen, his wife and Peter Hohmann, first mate. The body of the Jensen baby has not been recovered.

The fate of the rest of the twenty-one souls on board is still clouded in mystery, with a possibility that some of them may have managed to reach shore. The combing of the beaches was continued with great care today in the belief that more helpless survivors were lying on the rocky shore.

The two survivors gained shore by clinging to pieces of lumber. They report having seen several of the crew of the Pirrie go down in the raging sea.

IRISH FRIENDS JOIN NEW ORGANIZATION

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 1.—Francis A. Mulvanity Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, the largest branch in this State, unanimously voted to surrender its charter and become affiliated with the new organization, the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. The officers of the organization, of which Edward F. Kean is president, were elected temporary officers of the council. A committee was named to choose a name for the council.

ROXBURY WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE AT CITY POINT

Leaping into the waters of Pleasure Bay, near the Aquarium, South Boston, Agnes White, aged twenty-seven, single, of No. 1309 Tremont street, Roxbury, tried to drown herself.

She was rescued by Porter Bange of No. 25 Winthrop street, Framingham, and removed to the City Hospital. It is believed that mental trouble was the cause of her action. Her condition is not serious.

Chicken Buyer Tells an All-Star Story

North Woodstock, Ct., Dec. 1.—"Jake" Horwitz is a reputable chicken buyer from Providence and a highly moral man. He says so himself.

Furthermore he never drinks anything but a little schnapps occasionally to keep out the cold, a very little, as he is a poor man and could not afford to put down a large stock before the advent of prohibition. And the cider mills are no longer running up Eastford way.

Therefore there seemed little reason to question the story that Horwitz told excitedly, with many gesticulations, after arriving here with the exhaust of his motor truck roaring and his eyes protruding from his head.

According to the chicken buyer, he was clattering through Eastford woods at a good road pace of two miles an hour, his mind intent on higher things, such as the profits he would make from his day's purchases. Suddenly his attention was attracted by a flare in the heavens, as a shooting star soared across the zenith and disappeared.

Horwitz beamed placidly and muttered a Good Luck couplet and was about to return to his calculations when another star dropped rapidly across the horizon. Then, in rapid succession, as though sprayed from a machine gun, stars or meteors of all shapes and sizes illuminated the skies and roared away into darkness.

Horwitz counted thirty-six, he declared, and then convinced that the end of the world was at hand and his chickens unsold, he threw his engine into full speed and headed for North Woodstock. He made almost ten miles an hour.

GREASE FIRE IN KITCHEN OF UNITED STATES HOTEL

Fire, starting from an overturned pot of grease and spreading to the chimney in the kitchen of the United States Hotel caused an automatic alarm to be sounded, although the blaze was extinguished with slight damage. Guests remained in their rooms, unaware that firemen had been called to the kitchen.

CHELSEA CONFERENCE TO IMPROVE LIGHT SERVICE

Mayor Breath of Chelsea will confer with J. W. Coles of the Edison company tomorrow morning, at the Chelsea City Hall. They will take up the matter of numerous complaints of the street lights being out and the poor service generally. The lights have been going out one hour before daylight and it is said that many of the breaks in this city are made at that time.

CRANOR DENIES BOLLING BRIBE

Admits Sands Got $40,000 to Arrange Credit for Firm in Providence

By International News Service.

New York, Dec. 1.—John M. Cranor, assistant to Wallace Downey of the Wallace Downey Shipbuilding Corporation, denied on the stand before the Congressional shipping probers here today that he had acted as a go-between or had had any connection whatsoever with a $40,000 "bribe" which Tucker K. Sands, former Washington banker, has charged was divided among four men, including H. Wilmer Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson, for securing a "fat shipbuilding contract."

Sands alleges this bribe came from the Downey firm.

Cranor testified that he did arrange "to allow Sands $40,000" for arranging a credit for the Providence Engineering Company, a subsidiary of the Downey firm.

SCIENCE CASES GO TO BENCH

Choate Ends Arguments an Justices Get Church Suits for Decision

Final argument in the Christia Science hearing, which started Mon day morning before the Massachu setts Supreme Court, was conclude by Attorney Charles F. Choate, Jr today and the cases passed to the fu bench for decision.

In all, five suits were heard by th Justices, Mr. Choate arguing on th merits of the Attorney-General's bi seeking to declare the church charitable trust which has failed an should be taken over by the State.

At the conclusion of Mr. Choate argument, Attorney Edwin Krauthoff, who had previously ar gued for his own bill, informed th court that Mr. Choate had been re tained by certain beneficiaries of th Christian Science trust who had bee refused a hearing by the Attorney General.

Attorney Choate said that a churc divided against itself cannot stand He stated that it was in the court' hands whether it should live or die.

The function of publishing Chris tian Science literature began i 1883, he said, when Mrs. Eddy di the work herself. Later it passe to a committee of the church an then to a corporation disbanded be fore the publishing society was es tablished in 1898.

This reorganization, Mr. Choat said, was merely to put the churc on a firm and perpetual basis. Th dominant purpose of Mrs. Eddy, h said, was that power should exis in the church. She invested i the governing body. The church added, had the power to change own organization if it chose.

Mr. Choate took issue with Cha Evans Hughes, who thought the f that Mrs. Eddy did not appoint directors as trustees of the publi ing society was significant in indic ing she intended the two bodies to entirely separate. Mr. Choate ac knowledged that this was significant but for a different reason.

This reason, he said, was primarily because Mrs. Eddy realized it was in consistent to have leaders of a re ligion conducting within it a busines for profit.

Members of the Christian Scienc Church, he said, were wonderi whether they now have any chur He said it was for that reason bill of the Attorney-General brought to join all the threads litigation into one central purp He believed Mrs. Eddy intended thority should be vested in directors.

B. U. JEWISH STUDENTS TO ENTERTAIN CHILDREN

The Menorah Society of Boston University has invited three hundred children for a Chanukah, or Feast of Dedication, to be held in Jacob Sleeper Hall on December 9 from 4 until 6. Each child will be given raisins and nuts, besides a present.

Entertainment will be furnished by the band from the Home for Jewish Children, led by Emil Passault. The program also includes lighting of the candles by Harry A. Zaremsky, president of the society; recitation of the Chanukah poetry by Miss Bella Weisman, former president, and community singing.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply —of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co. Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MADGE LESSING.

FORCED TO FLEE FROM GERMANY

Madge Lessing Aroused Enmity by Remarks About Chorus Girls

By FRED J. McISAAC.

They were "striking the last act," technical expression, meaning removing the scenery, when I intercepted Madge Lessing on the stage of the Globe Theatre, and suggested that the gallant Amazon captain of "Erminie" might be induced to make a few remarks.

If you have seen "Erminie" you noticed that Miss Madge wears a white uniform, with knickerbockers so tight that they might just as well call them tights. Well, a stage hand obligingly placed a chair for us right there in the corner of the stage.

"Won't you sit down?" said Miss Lessing.

"The chair was for you," I insinuated.

"I don't want to sit down. In fact—er—I don't care to sit down—in these," said Miss Lessing, indicating the clinging white knickers. And so we talked standing up.

"You know I have been perfectly overpowered to find that Boston remembered me," said the actress, and there were tears in her eyes when she said it. "Why, it's more than ten years since I was last here, and when a burst of applause greeted my entrance on the opening night, I was so surprised I almost fainted."

"They remembered 'Jack and the Beanstalk.'"

"That was so long ago," deprecated Miss Lessing. Madge still has that rather infantile tone in her voice that old General "Hi Hi" Dixwell and other inveterate theatregoers used to admire. In the days of Miss Lessing's debut in the Hub there were only about three theatres, and the sporting element which went to the theatre every night had to take in the same show about three times a week.

"It makes me feel ancient to think about it, and I really am not ancient," she declared.

"Where have you been all this time? I heard you singing in Paris in the French language, and in Berlin in the days before the war. How did you happen to do it?"

"It was just accident," she said. "I had been singing in London and I was induced to take up French, so that I might fill an engagement in Paris. I had rather a knack with languages and was soon chattering in French quite fluently. One of the German managers heard me in Paris, and knowing that I was an American actress, came around to offer me a job in Berlin.

"But I don't know any German," I protested.

"'It is nothing. If you can learn French, you can learn German. We set the engagement three months off. Meantime you study German.' Well, I did, and in three months could read lines fairly well. I had an American accent, of course, but they didn't mind that.

"I remained in Germany four years, think of that. They paid very well there and I could live very inexpensively. I loved the life. At that time there were only three women in Berlin with licenses to drive a motor. I was one of them. They used to point us out, us women, when we drove by, thinking we were perfect daredevils. The German women were never very enterprising.

"Oh, by the way, one of your interviewers nearly cost me my life in Berlin. He asked me what I thought of German chorus girls compared with Americans. I told him in confidence, but he printed it. It was immediately republished in Berlin.

"I had said that German chorus girls were usually fair, fat and forty and had legs like elephants. I was afraid to go to the theatre. I feared they would tear me from limb to limb. When I got there the director sent two guards to protect me, and I had to apologize before the assembled chorus. I got out of it by saying that the interviewer and myself were both speaking German, and neither of us had understood the language enough to know what we were talking about.

"Then they led me to the editor of the paper, who told me I would have to come back at midnight to see the man in charge of that department. I went back and told my story. When I was all through, he said:

"'So. Well the interviewer told me that you said that and he was going to print it and we have been waiting for weeks for it. However, we will print a retraction from you if you wish.'

"He did, but I wasn't as popular after that, and when the war broke out I fled from Berlin to London, where I have been playing for several years.

"But I am so glad to be home again. When I first came back people coupled the fact that I had been in Berlin with my name Lessing and said I must have been German. As a matter of fact, Lessing is nothing but a stage name and my real name is Madge O'Donnell. I'm Irish. Hurray for De Valera."

WIFE DESERTION CHARGE HEARD

Pastor's Daughter Plaintiff in Case Against Springfield Realty Man

Springfield, Dec. 1.—Troubles of Osborne Daniels, wealthy real estate and insurance broker, on trial, accused of abandonment of his wife and child, are piling up rapidly. Attorneys for his wife, who was Marguerite Underhill of Northampton, daughter of Rev. Arthur F. Underhill, have filed a suit in Probate Court for separate support.

Daniels' mother, Mrs. Mary E. Daniels, of No. 6 Kenwood park, is facing a $50,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by her daughter-in-law, who claims the mother was responsible for the domestic crash.

Daniels' hearing in the abandonment case was in Police Court today.

In his arguments Attorney John H. Madden, counsel for the prosecution, quoted from two letters of the defendant to his wife. Both were sent her at Morningside Beach, Ct., shortly before the alleged desertion and were introduced to show she had no knowledge of intended abandonment. One letter is dated July 22, 1919. It reads in part:

"Darling girls (his wife and infant daughter): Talk about being lonesome. Oh, boy! At night I get so lonely without my girls. I have to hug the pillow. I sure will enjoy getting to the shore this week-end. The apartment looked wonderful and it still does. It is an awful big place when only one little boy has to occupy it all alone. Ernie was over last night and we went to the movies.

"We came home and talked, the favorite subject being love and 'Olga.' Zowie, but it's great to be in love! Now, darling, give that bitty girl a good kiss for me, and oh, I would like to give you one myself. Will write you tomorrow."

The other letter is dated August 4, 1919, four days before Daniels is alleged to have left his wife, not to appear again for over a year. It reads:

"Darling: Received your nice long letter and it sure was great to hear from you. I have had my hands full every minute since coming home and now all is started—the houses are started and I hope everything is going to go all right.

"I don't know whether I will bring any one with me next Saturday, but if I do I will let you know beforehand. I think I would prefer to be all alone with my two girls, if that would suit them."

POLICE REFUSED BRIBE, CALLED DEAF AND DUMB

Lawrence, Dec. 1.—Laurence Fay, who, with Charles Hanna, both of New York, was bound over to the grand jury in the district court here, told the arresting officer that "Lawrence policemen were deaf and dumb" because $400, as a bribe, would not interest them.

The officers captured 550 quarts of liquor.

The defence was that the men were joking, and that after the police patrol motor had stalled the prisoners assisted the police and offered to drive the patrol to the police station.

CONCORD LIBRARY ASKS DONATIONS FOR GALLERY

The Concord library committee is asking for subscriptions for the purpose of buying some works of art from the fifth annual exhibition of the Concord Art Association, now being held in the Concord Town Hall. The committee includes Dr. Edward W. Emerson, the Rev. Loren B. Macdonald, Charles Francis Adams, Edward F. Loughlin and Allen French. It is planned to make the addition of a gallery to the present public library building, which already has a collection of art.

VETERAN CONNECTICUT JAILER RESIGNS

Brooklyn, Ct., Dec. 1.—Sheriff Albert H. Fields, for a quarter of a century jailer here, today ended his service to the county and moved to a State position.

Fields has a better general knowledge of New England criminals than any man in the State and enjoys the sole distinction of being the only jailer in New England that always showed a profit for the county, up to the time that Federal prohibition knocked all jail profits into a cocked hat.

STOLEN AUTO HUNT ENDS IN BOOTLEGGING ARRESTS

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 1.—Search by Police Officer M. P. Corbet for a stolen automobile resulted in the confiscation of seventy-five quarts of Scotch whiskey and the arrest of Benjamin J. Davenport of Groton, Mass.; Leon Bova of Lowell, Mass.; and Sam Burke of this city and the breaking up, the police believe, of one of the rings which have been bringing whiskey into this city.

HAVERHILL WORKERS ENJOY MEAT PRICE DROP

Haverhill, Dec. 1.—Several thousand idle shoe workers are enjoying a belated Thanksgiving as a sharp drop in meat prices has been announced by wholesalers and retailers. Fresh pork led off with a drop ranging from 8 to 10 cents a pound. Steaks show a drop from 2 to 6 cents, bacon 5 to 7 cents, smoked hams 4 to 7 cents, salt pork 3 cents.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF HAMPTON, N. H., IS DEAD

Hampton, N. H., Dec. 1. — Hugh Brown, a leading citizen of this town, is dead at the Portsmouth Hospital, aged sixty-seven years. He was taken ill while serving on the Rockingham County jury and death quickly followed an operation. He served in many town offices and the Legislature.

COLORED MAID FACES $600 THEFT CHARGE

Caroline Gray, alias Daisy Hodge, a negro maid employed by Mrs. Royal S. Wentworth of No. 1 Calumet road, Winchester, was arrested by Sergeant McCauley of the Winchester police at No. 32 Kendall street, Cambridge, charged with larceny of $600 worth of jewelry and wearing apparel.

Give Up Jobs a Month to Unemployed

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 1. — Five hundred employes of the A. Nash Clothing Manufacturing Company, where the golden rule is proclaimed as the basis of the business, today resolved to surrender their jobs for one month to the unemployed of other clothing factories to prevent suffering.

The resolution was passed after Arthur Nash, president of the concern, told the employes that, while their business had doubled since July other factories were closing down, throwing thousands out of work.

The employes also resolved that if it was found necessary to reduce the price of clothing to stimulate business, and wage reductions were necessary as a result, the first reductions should affect those earning more than $5 a day.

PACKERS FACE CONFISCATION

Palmer Asks Court Name Trustees to Seize and Sell All Stockyards Interests

Washington, Dec. 1.—Attorney General Palmer filed a petition in the District Supreme Court here asking the court to issue an order appointing trustees to take possession of all the packers' stock yards interest and sell them under such terms as the court may deem wise.

The attorney general, in a brief making sweeping exceptions to all of the plans submitted to the court by the big packing interests, said that they had exhausted nine months of time without submitting to the court or the Department of Justice any satisfactory proposal that would divorce packer control from those properties, embracing 75 per cent. of the stock yards and terminals in the United States.

PALMER CHARGES DECEPTION.

Attorney-General Palmer told the court that careful analysis of the plan submitted by Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. revealed to the government counsel a "plain intention upon the part of the packers to retain a dominating control of these interests through 'cleverly devised stock transfer arrangements.'" Equally firm objection was raised as to the plan submitted by Morris & Co.

The Morris Company's suggestion that their interests be assigned to a trust company for a five years' term and disposed of at the expiration of that time at certain stipulated figures, was held by the Attorney-General to be unreasonable. He further stated that the Morris interests have not made a satisfactory proposal regarding the court's power to remove trustees controlling the Morris interests.

HEARING SET DEC. 14.

The government's motion for the appointment of trustees was made returnable by the court on December 14 and arguments will be heard on that day and counsel for the packing interests given an opportunity to submit an answer. The Department of Justice did not deal in their objections today with the Cudahy stockyards.

Objections to the Cudahy plan will be presented later, it was stated.

GIRL VACATIONISTS OF WOODS HOLE IN REUNION

Miss Rose Finkelstein of the Telephone Operators' Union is chairman of the committee in charge of the reunion of girls who were guests of the Women's Trade Union League at Penzance Lodge, Woods Hole, last Summer. The reunion is to be held at Hotel Arlington tonight and will take the form of a dinner. Other members of the committee are: Miss Christine Tucker, Neckwear Workers' Union; Miss Annie Withington, executive board of the Women's Trade Union League; Miss Grace Hannan of the Telephone Operators' Union, and Miss Ida Gordon of the Stenographers' Union.

ROXBURY JEWS HONOR RABBI WOLF GOLD

A complimentary banquet to Rabbi Wolf Gold of New York, one of the leading Orthodox rabbis in America, who was recently elected to the chief rabbinical position in San Francisco, was held by the members of Temple Adath Jeshurun of Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury. The rabbi and his brother, Rabbi Henry Gold, leader of the Blue Hill avenue synagogue, were the principal speakers. Nathan Pinanski presided.

FIND STOLEN ROXBURY AUTO IN LINCOLN POND

A large closed automobile, stolen from Joseph D. Cooper of No. 4 Abbotsford street, Roxbury, was found stalled in a small pond at Lincoln, near the State highway which runs through that town to Lexington and Concord. The machine had accidentally left the road, torn through a wire fence and after leaping a stone wall, submerged to the wheeltops in the pond water.

GIRL, AGED 12, BOY, 9, HOLD UP AND ROB WOMAN

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 1.—Charged with attacking Mrs. Anna Riley in the business section here, holding her up and stealing her purse, which was thrown away after the cash contents had been taken, Edith Schultz, aged twelve, and her brother, Harry, aged nine, are being held for the juvenile court.

DR. LAMB IS ELECTED GARDINER, ME., MAYOR

Gardiner, Me., Dec. 1.—Dr. Bert E. Lamb was elected mayor here over Dr. Carroll L. Church by a vote of 1,113 to 780. Dr. Lamb has already served three terms in the office from which the present incumbent, Mayor Bragdon, is retiring.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE SLAYING

Four Men Grilled in the Owen Hayes Case at Rutland, Vermont

Rutland, Vt., Dec. 1.—The four men held here on the charge of slaying Owen Hayes have been grilled separately by the county authorities in an effort to break down their defence, and in one instance they are said to have been successful.

Peter Longe, father of the fifteen-year-old girl, whose story to the police led to the arrest of the quartet, Joseph Duffany and E. L. Bartwell, were taken to the Addison County Jail in Middlebury where they were individually questioned at great length.

HEAR LONGE'S STORY.

Earnest Lovell, the fourth man under arrest, and believed by the authorities to know considerably more about the slaying that he has thus far admitted, was grilled at the Rutland City Hall.

Officers spent a lengthy period with Longe and it is generally understood here that his story has changed the entire aspect of their investigation.

With tightly drawn lips and pallid cheeks effacing all signs of her youthful beauty, Madeline Longe, fifteen-year-old daughter of Peter Longe, came out of the office of State Attorney P. M. M. Phelps in Fairhaven with hanging head after reciting her story which may be her father's death sentence.

She was followed by her father, whose rugged features showed no emotion. They had been grilled all day by the State authorities, headed by Attorney General F. C. Archibald.

The inquest was private. Witnesses who declared they had seen Owen Hayes, the slain man, on October 6 were brought into the chamber. Others with more startling disclosures were examined first.

FAILED TO GET $100.

Madeline's tale of sordid happenings relates to the companions of her father. She said that Lovell told her, "your father and us killed a man." The girl was pledged to secrecy. She blurted out the whole story when her sweetheart was sent to jail on the charge of betraying her, brought by her father.

It is known that when the body of Owen Hayes was found floating in the Castleton River he had suspended about his neck a small bag in which was inclosed $100, which was not found by the robbers.

Attorney-General Archibald of Manchester will ask for an immediate session of a special Grand Jury to consider the case.

It is understood that all four men have made statements that Madeline Longe, fifteen-year-old daughter of one of the suspects, had admitted having been told of the murder on the Sunday night following the killing and that Owen Hayes was traced by witnesses through his entire movements on the night of his death up to 10:30 o'clock when he left the waiting station of the Rutland Railway Light and Power Company at 12:30 o'clock and started down River street toward his home.

WHERE U BOT THE HAT

WORLD'S DEBTS 300 BILLION

Russia Not Included in This Total; Nations Spending More Than Income

The total of the national debts of every country in the world, with the exception of Russia, aggregates $300,000,000,000, according to O. P. Austin of the National City Bank of New York.

This stupendous sum was estimated by Austin in an article on world finances appearing in the current issue of The Americas, a publication of the National City Bank.

In addition to making some interesting deductions from the figures which he furnished, Austin pointed out that three-fourths of the governments of the world are now showing annual budget deficits. Furthermore, he declared, eleven of the twelve European countries are spending more every year than they are receiving from ordinary sources of income.

DEBTS INCREASING.

Another alarming statement made by the financial expert was the claim that the world's debts, instead of decreasing since the end of the war, have been steadily accelerated. During the giant conflict the world debt additions averaged $40,000,000,000 a year, Austin stated. In the first year of peace, however, these additions had increased to $44,000,000,000 and the year just ended it had grown to $42,000,000,000.

In 1913, Austin stated, the world national debts were $43,000,000,000, but at the date of the armistice they had swelled to $212,000,000,000 and were steadily increasing. One year later they were $250,000,000,000 and in November, 1920, the mark of $300,000,000,000 was reached.

The statistician declared further that world paper currency increased from $7,500,000,000 in 1913 to $43,000,000,000 at the date of the armistice, and $55,000,000,000 one year later, and $82,000,000,000 in November, 1920, the end of the second peace year.

The ratio of gold to world paper currency, he said, which averaged 66.3 per cent. in 1913 and 17.6 per cent. at the close of the war, was 13.5 per cent. at the end of the first peace year and 9.2 per cent. on the second anniversary of the armistice.

Some countries, he said, were turning out paper money as fast as their presses could run it off, with little more behind it, in some cases, than the intrinsic value of the paper.

EXPENDITURES ABOVE RECEIPTS.

These post-war increases in national debts and paper currency, according to Austin, are largely a result of "budget deficits," especially in European countries, and were the subject of much discussion at the recent Brussels financial conference of the League of Nations.

The cost of governmental machinery, he said, paid for in a greatly depreciated currency, are necessarily many times in cost those of the pre-war period, while the mere interest charges on national debts are now more than a billion dollars a month. With these conditions, he claimed, national expenditures have run in excess of receipts from taxation and can only be met by increases in national debts or new issues of paper currency.

WHAT $300,000,000,000 MEANS

600,000 tons of gold.

$2,800 for each of 107,000,000 persons in the United States.

$75,000 for each of the 4,000,000 persons in Massachusetts.

Would require a train 200 miles long to transport it.

12,000,000 persons, working for one year each at $1,000, would earn just enough to meet the interest on this vast amount.

DR. JOHN W. COUGHLIN OF FALL RIVER IS DYING

Fall River, Dec. 1.—Dr. John W. Coughlin, ex-Mayor of Fall River, and a member of the Democratic National Committee up to last June, is critically ill at his home on North Main street. His physician says that death is now only a question of time. Dr. Coughlin was operated on in a Boston hospital a few weeks ago. He was brought back to this city following the operation.

POLICE HUNT TRUNK IN SMALL MYSTERY

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 1.—A new aspect was given the investigation into the supposed murder of Ambrose Small, millionaire theatrical man, when the police were informed that on November 2 a couple of transfer employes removed a trunk from a residence to the Union depot, which it is believed contained a badly discomposed body.

GERMANY BARS STRIKES IN 'HEALTH' TRADES

Berlin, Dec. 1.—The Reichstag has enacted into law President Ebert's decree outlawing strikes in all trades that effect the health and comfort of the people.

Pennsylvania Railroad For "Open Shop"

New York, Dec. 1.—In a statement given out by the Pennsylvania Railroad, General W. W. Atterbury, vice-president in charge of operations, advocated the "open shop" and declares that the labor unions are engaged in an attempt to nationalize the railroads and unify all railroad properties.

General Atterbury declares that he has no quarrel with union labor as long as it does not attempt to bring about the closed shop, advocate or practice sympathetic strikes, or practice sabotage.

STARTS SECOND HUNGER STRIKE

Freed Prisoner Voluntarily Starving as Protest Against Debs' Imprisonment

Washington, Dec. 1.—Benjamin Salmon, conscientious objector, of Denver, Colo., and prisoner at the Walter Reed Hospital, where he has been on a prolonged hunger strike as a protest against his confinement, has begun a new hunger strike as a "Christian protest against the imprisonment of Eugene V. Debs and his fellow political prisoners."

In a letter sent to President Wilson, he wrote:

"My July objective of liberty or death has been attained. That food strike is past history. But today I began a new strike because I choose to obey God's new command: 'Be thou a soldier of democracy; thou shalt not kill.' Although my body is free, my soul will stay behind the bars, so long as Debs and his comrades remain in durance vile."

Salmon was one of thirty-three conscientious objectors ordered released by Secretary Baker. He was freed last night. While imprisoned at Fort Douglas, Utah, he went on a hunger strike. Later he was brought here and imprisoned first in St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane and later transferred to Walter Reed Hospital.

TENANTS WILL PETITION COX

Rent Increases in Houses and Stores Protested in Codman Square District

Large signs displayed in store windows of the Codman square district of Dorchester protest against the raising of rents in stores and tenements and invited those interested to sign a petition that will be submitted to Channing H. Cox, Governor-elect, and urge him to recommend a remedy in his inaugural.

The father of the movement is George A. Phipps of No. 691 Washington street, Dorchester, who asserts that the landlords of Dorchester are losing control of their heads and raising rents beyond all reason. Stores in the Codman square section that paid $40 have been increased to $75 a month and in some cases more, while business conditions in the section have not improved, but in fact, are on the decline.

He further states that if the store dealers have to pay more rent the high cost of goods will be kept up at the expense of the poor people.

350 MODELS AT AUTO SHOW

Eighty-Seven Exhibitors to Display Cars at Big New York Event

At the first automobile show ever held in this country, in Madison Square Garden, on November 3, 1900, there were in all 66 exhibits. At the 21st annual New York show, to be held in Grand Central Palace from January 8 to January 15, 1921, there will be nearly 400 exhibitors of motor cars and motor car accessories, and of this vast total 87 exhibitors will show different makes of cars.

This does not mean that only 87 automobiles will be on the floor, for each manufacturer will display several models, and it is estimated that about 350 cars will be shown.

WILL OCCUPY FOUR FLOORS.

The coming show, which will occupy four floors in the palace, each floor a city square block, will demonstrate the wonderful strides made in the automobile industry. Only those who attended the first show in 1900 when motor cars were considered almost freaks, and in fact when compared to the present day models, were freaks, can realize the vast improvement.

There were no palatial limousines, no stately sedans and no rakish looking touring cars at the initial exhibition, but just models that proved some far seeing business men were awakening to the beginning of what now is the third largest industry of the country.

New York's Annual Automobile Show, which is held under the auspices of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and is a twin brother to the Chicago Exposition, held later in the month has become a national institution.

ENGINE MAIN FACTOR.

Manufacturers and dealers of every make of car vie with one another to stage an exhibit of beauty, but there also is a practical side to each display. The latest models of cars are of course shown, and while body design makes a car attractive, it is the engine that now makes the appeal to the present day motor car prospect.

Motor car manufacturers have in the past few years, paid more attention to the engine. There have been many improvements in body designs, but automobile builders learned many lessons during the period factories were turned over to the government.

BROCKTON ORGANIZES TO FIGHT SNOW DRIFTS

Brockton, Dec. 1.—Brockton motor truck owners and firms who use this means of transportation freely during the year have formed the Brockton Truck Owners' Association, the chief object of which is to work in conjunction with the Massachusetts Highway Commission in keeping the highway between Brockton and Quincy free from snow during the Winter months, thereby expediting the "ship by truck" movement.

AUTO DEALERS TO MEET HERE

P. E. Chamberlain, Efficiency Expert, to Address Big Meeting at City Club Tomorrow

The mass meeting of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association and the Boston Commercial Motor Vehicle Association to be held at noon hour at the City Club on Thursday, December 2, will be the biggest thing of its kind ever held by the motor vehicle industry in the eastern part of the United States. The meeting will be attended by the passenger car dealers and the truck dealers belonging to the local association, together with their sales and service managers.

The principal speaker will be P. E. Chamberlain, efficiency expert, who is touring the country under the auspices of the National Automobile Dealers' Association. His subject will be, "Selling Service Intelligently." He recently addressed the dealers at San Antonio, Texas, over 500 people being present. His efforts to enlighten them on their sales and service problems have been greatly appreciated.

On his recent address in Detroit to the dealers' association there the Detroit Press and the Detroit News wrote in glowing terms regarding the great good he did there.

Another speaker of great prominence is A. R. Krah of Ohio, who has traveled the country from one end to the other studying the general conditions upon which he will speak and endeavor to give an outline of the possible future that is in store for the dealers. His subject will be "The Farmer, the Banker and the Motor Vehicle." He will tell our motor car dealers how banks will extend credit to motor dealers and dwell on other subjects of vital importance to the industry.

Chester I. Campbell, secretary of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, and J. H. MacAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, have worked hard to make this meeting a big success and have every member present, together with their sales managers and service managers.

Every automobile concern in Boston should be well represented at this meeting both in their sales and service departments.

There will also be officials from outside Associations on hand. The States of New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut and Rhode Island will be represented, as well as some of the largest cities in Massachusetts. This will be a big time and a profitable one.

THE

$1395 with Cord Tires

f. o. b. Milwaukee

The new Nash Four, a product of expert engineering and expert manufacture, is now shown for your inspection.

It is a quality motor car, light in weight but strongly and finely built to endure the hardest service.

Like the Nash Six, it has two conspicuous and outstanding features—unusual power, due to its Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor, and really exceptional beauty of design and finish.

The character of the Nash Four may be judged not only by sturdy excellence of construction but in the fineness of the many important details which make for superior comfort and convenience.

We will welcome the opportunity to show you the Nash Four at your earliest convenience.

ASK MR. FIXIT

Dear Mr. Fixit: (1.) I have a 1919 Ford and have a lot of trouble with the emergency brake shoes. What causes them to break so often? I put in three myself and then as they would break in about two days I thought I was putting them in wrong so I had two put in at the service station with the same result. How tight should the bolt be that holds the brake shoe in place?

(2.) When I start off in low gear the machine jumps and jerks badly, especially if I am starting on the least bit of a hill. Is there anything I can do to remedy this? I have tried tightening the low gear band but it does not help any.

(3.) What are some of the reasons for broken or rather cracked porcelains of the spark plugs? S. H. G.

New Bedford.

(1.) Set the bolt that holds the brake shoe in place only as tight as you can make it with a pair of pliers. You have probably been setting this too much. The brake drum may not be concentric with the axle.

(2.) You may have a glazed first-speed band. This would cause a chatter and very sudden gripping. Put on a new band.

(3.) A sudden change of temperature from heat to cold or vice-versa causes this. Lack of oil or water might be the primary cause.

Dear Mr. Fixit: I have a Willys Knight 84-1916 and want to have the light buttons on the dash. I wish to take them off the steering post. I purchased a three-button switch but had to wire the head lights in series. Will you kindly send me a sketch of how to connect it. The connection side of switch is like the diagram herewith. I am enclosing the wiring diagram of the car and would like very much to have it returned. I would also like to put a single button on the dash for the mag. A. M. A.

Newton.

You can use a three-button switch for your lights and horn and a separate button for your ignition. You can wire your head lights for "bright" and "dim" by grounding the return wires of both head lights to the frame instead of bringing one ground wire back to the switch as it is now. This will allow you one button for "dim" and one for "bright" and a third button for the horn with the dash and tail light connected in series and wired to your other lights so that the dash and tail will light when your head are burning. For your extra magneto button simply run your wires to the other button on the dash instead of the fourth button on your present switch. We will mail your diagram as you request.

Dear Mr. Fixit: Will you please tell me if it is time to put anti-freezing solution in my radiator? J. A. L.

Winchester.

Now that the weather is getting settled and cold would advise using either a denatured alcohol solution or one of the various anti-freezing solutions that are on the market. The following table shows the freezing point of a denatured alcohol solution:

Alcohol	Water	Will freeze at
1 part	3 parts	10 above zero
1 part	2 parts	zero
1 part	1 part	20 below zero

Dear Mr. Fixit: I have read of your advice to others and I think perhaps you can help me. I have a Ford 1914 model. This makes the third time that I have stripped the rear end. A year ago this last Summer I stripped the main gears in the differential; then it seemed to run all right until this Summer, and then last Fall I stripped them again, and in about four weeks I stripped them again so I had a new rear-end put in except the outside housing. Have been running only two days now and there seems to be an awful grinding that sounds in the transmission and for five or six times now, when the engine is throttled down on high, it will stall and then you can't crank it without the whole car starting forward; but if you push the car backwards it seems to release it so you can crank it. After it does that three or four times it strips the rear end. Hoping you will understand me and can give me some advice at the earliest possible moment and thanking you in advance I am E. A. A.

Palmer.

You have a very peculiar case and it would seem to us that the cause of your trouble is a bent axle housing. This would cause the roller bearing to wear out and crush which jams up your differential and causes your pinion and drive gear to strip. When you push the car backwards it would release this broken bearing to a certain extent so that you could crank the car. On starting ahead it jams the broken part into the transmission which causes it to strip. If you will pull down your rear end and examine carefully and reassemble it you may find your trouble. If the holes in the differential housing do not line up exactly, you will know that the housing is bent and out of line. It may be necessary for you to get a whole new rear end.

1,040 FROM ITALY DUE IN BOSTON MONDAY

Another big throng of immigrants is coming to Boston from Italy on board the White Star line steamship Canopic, now en route from Genoa to Naples, and due to arrive December 6. In her steerage department are 1040 passengers, principally Italians forced to leave their mother country because of unsettled conditions. There are also fifty-five first and 334 second-class passengers.

RECEPTION TO NIVELLE DELAYED TO FRIDAY

Owing to the unexpected change in itinerary the reception which will be given at the Boston Community Service Army and Navy Club to General Nivelle, who is touring the country as the official representative of the French government has been changed from Thursday morning to Friday morning between 10:45 and 11:30 o'clock.

DARTMOUTH TO RAISE TUITION FEE TO $250

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 1.—Tuition at Dartmouth College, beginning September, 1921, will be $250, according to a statement made by the college authorities. This is an increase of $50 over the present rate and is explained as necessary on account of the increased cost of operation of the college.

BOSTON BIRTHS BREAK RECORDS

Expect Year Will Show Total of 20,000, Mostly Boys as Usual

In spite of the high cost of marriages and landlords who say "no children," Boston's birth rate for 1920 bids fair to shatter all records for new arrivals in this city within a twelve-month.

City Registrar Edward McGlenen states that 17,693 babies were born in the first eleven months of the year, and at the continued rate for December this will mean nearly 20,000 babies, mostly boys.

For the first time since the war period the comparative decrease in births over deaths is swept aside and Baby is winning by a large majority. The increase is something like 2,000 better than the birth records of 1919.

Why Boston should produce more boys than girls, Registrar McGlenen explains with the statement that it has always been so, and it needed no war to bring it about. Some of the larger cities of United States and Europe report the increase of boy babies over girls as a phenomenon following the war.

Last year's total births were 19,170 and the births have totalled around this figure or somewhat below it for several years past.

"Fatty" Arbuckle Has Tumble in Paris

Paris, Dec. 1.—"Fatty" Arbuckle got a series of falls and bruises which were not a part of a movie comedy. He is confined to his room in the royal suite at the Hotel Crillon following a severe manhandling by a mob of enthusiastic admirers who met him at the station here and insisted on carrying him on their shoulders.

While he was at the highest point (from the ground) in his triumphal procession, some of his admirers were unable to sustain the terrific weight of their hero, and at a critical moment let him drop.

In spite of the fall and his injuries "Fatty" was almost smothered with kisses by a crowd of feminine fans before he was rescued and carried to the hotel.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Alex. Migara, who resides at 10 Pacific St., So. Boston, said: "I had stomach trouble for years. I was always hungry, but what I ate did not digest. I felt sleepy, had no ambition, was tired all the time, was constipated, afflicted with frequent headaches. I read of the many people who had been successfully treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians for troubles similar to my own, so I had them treat me. At that time I was fat, uncomfortably so. Under the Osmo-Chemic treatment I lost 20 pounds weight in 5 weeks and feel fine. Digestion all right and am deeply grateful to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in disease of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

HOW I CURED MY CATARRH

TOLD IN A SIMPLE WAY
Without Apparatus, Inhalers, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.
HEALS DAY AND NIGHT

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different; no lotion, spray or sickening drugs; no atomizer or any apparatus of any kind; nothing to smoke or inhale; no confinement in the home; something new and different; something healthful. You do not have to wait and linger and pay out a lot of money. I will gladly tell you how. I am not a doctor, but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic. I am free. You can be free. My catarrh was filthy and loathesome. It made me ill. It dulled my head. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly.

But I found a cure and I am ready to tell thousands of other sufferers that CAMPHOROLE, which can be secured at any drug store, cured me of catarrh of nose and throat.—Mrs. E. Anderson, Pleasantville Terrace, N. J.

FULL VALUE FOR LIBERTY BONDS

People like to save money and they dislike to pay full price on any make piano, and they know that they don't have to when they buy at my sales.

This willingness to accept the smallest profit on any make piano has brought me a large volume of trade. In point of individual piano sales I am probably the largest individual piano dealer in Boston and New England. In fact, were statistics obtainable I believe that they would prove me to be the largest individual piano dealer in the United States and maybe in the world. I do not make this statement in a spirit of boastfulness—I make it hoping that the people will analyze it, for it must show that to have gained this highest position in the piano business I must have treated the public fairly and squarely.

Come to my Chirstmas sales before buying. I usually have just the make wanted at many dollars less than other dealers.

The 100% Perfect
PHONOGRAPH

This is one of the standard makes that I offer, together with others in my big phonograph department. I am competing with any phonograph on the market, asking no quarter and giving none in the battle for business.

This beautiful instrument is the very last word in fine phonograph making containing the very newest invention in every part, and experts pronounce it tone the purest of them all.

Singing Teacher Dies at 80

Colchester, Ct., Dec. 1.—Prof. W. O. [illegible]rner, aged eighty, dead at Willimantic, was for more than half a century a very successful singing master and choir teacher.

SAVING LIVES

Father John's Medicine

Has had more than 65 years of success for colds, coughs and as a strength-giving food medicine. It contains only pure, wholesome nourishment. No alcohol or dangerous drugs.

FIX STOMACH RIGHT UP

"Pape's Diapepsin" at once ends Indigestion, Gases, Sourness, Acidity

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases, acids or raise sour, undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion pain, heartburn or headache, from acidity, just eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone.

Millions of people know the magic of Pape's Diapepsin as an antacid. They know that indigestion and disordered stomach are so needless. The relief comes quickly, no disappointment, and they cost so little too.—Advertisement.

ROXBURY THEATRE EMPLOYES HELP SWELL XMAS FUND

with this goes every good wish for the Boston American and its very good work."

The point which Mr. Pushee makes in his letter is one that the Basket Fund Editor desires to impress upon every contributor. We spend one hundred cents on the dollar for food and assure every donor that not one cent of what he gives will be used for any other purpose

Richmond R. Weston, in sending a check for $2 wrote: "I only wish it was more, but I am doing something for the little ones over the seas and our local Red Cross and other things. I hope all will add their mite. Yours truly, An Old Civil War Veteran."

L. B. Uichanco, president of the Filipino Students' Association of New England, sent a check for $17.50 and wrote: "This association is composed of students in Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, Boston University, Wellesley College, New England Conservatory of Music and other educational institutions in the New England States. One of its principal aims is to establish mutual friendly relations between Filipino students and the American people in this part of the country.

"We take this opportunity to congratulate the Boston American for instituting such a worthy cause as the Basket Fund movement, and we are very glad indeed to be able to do our share in this organized effort to bring Charstmas cheer to the homes of the less fortunate members of our community."

THEATRE FOLK DONATE.

Employes of the Roxbury Theatre sent a check for $25. Manager William White wrote: "Wishing you continued success in your efforts to enable some of the kiddies to enjoy the Christmas season, we are——"

Contributions of $10 each were sent in by John E. Quinn, a Boston contractor, the Peninsula Family Laundry, and Jimmie Harrington of New York. The latter wrote: "I hope that you may realize an immense sum, and that the children will have all the happiness possible on this splendid occasion."

Margaret and Mary Philips sent $1 each and said they hoped "it will make some poor child happy."

Tickets for the charity ball and entertainment at the Copley-Plaza Hotel Ballroom, Tuesday evening, December 21, under the auspices of the Amelia Burnham Studio of Dancing, in aid of the Basket Fund, are now on sale. Reports indicate that the affair will be one of the most successful of its kind ever conducted in that beautiful ballroom. Each of the 100 or more pupils of Miss Burnham is doing her utmost to make the ball a success. Plans are now under way for a first-class entertainment to precede the dance.

Gus White, the "beauty photographer," has agreed to give twenty-five dollars worth of photographs to the prettiest girl or woman in the grand march at the charity ball. The names of the judges in this event will be announced later.

A whist party in aid of the Basket Fund is to be conducted on Wednesday evening, December 15, in the rooms of the White Whist Club, No. 694 Washington street, under the direction of W. T. Perry and Thomas Landry, who have aided the Basket Fund in other years in a similar manner.

Members and friends of the Gibralter Club are expected to make a donation to the Basket Fund next Friday night during the course of a dancing party at the Obert Bungalow on River street, Mattapan. The committee in charge of the dance is composed of Bennie Edelston, Arthur Bell, Jack Mann, Simon Hamburg, Max Isgur, Charles Klein, Morris Resnick.

MRS. WASHBURN ACTIVE.

Contributions totalling $207 have been made to the Basket Fund through Mrs. C. H. Washburn, society editor of the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Mrs. Washburn has always generously assisted the Basket Fund.

Among the persons who are giving active asistance in making the Fund a success this year are: Thomas H. McKiernan of No. 30 River street, Cambridge, and Alfred D. Shea, of No. 43 Beach Glen street, Roxbury.

One of the most recent contributions received was a check for $10 from Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of the former Governor of Massachusetts.

MRS. ALEXANDER BRADLEY'S FIVE YEAR OLD DAUGHTER DANGEROUSLY ILL

Here is a little bit of true life put into a letter by a mother of three children. It seems that since birth these children have been sickly, but," says Mrs. Alexander Bradley of Danbury, Connecticut, "after 14 long years trying different remedies I have at last found a good medicine—Dr. True's Elixir. My daughter, five years old, has had so much trouble with worms and constipation.

"I was nearly discouraged. I was giving the oldest girl something nearly every night, but now I keep a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir handy, and only give it occasionally. I give two teaspoons at night and two teaspoons in the morning with good results. I have tried so many things that now as soon as I see signs of worms I give Dr. True's Elixir for quick relief.

"My son, 14 years of age, was always troubled with worms when small and 'Dr. True's' was unknown to me then. I always have it on hand now, as I have another small child. They even ask for more. Now please print this letter so other anxious mothers may know the good results which follow Dr. True's Elixir for children suffering with worms and constipation, as I cannot recommend it too highly."

In these quick, active days we sometimes neglect our health. Often we eat too fast and do not allow proper time for digestion. Consequently we suffer from restless sleep and are distressed all day with troublesome headaches, nausea and general out-of-sorts feeling.

Symptoms of worms: Offensive breath, swollen upper lip, deranged stomach, occasional pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

MRS. BRADLEY AND CHILDREN

A great deal of sickness comes from irregular bowels, a vital part of the body. At the first signs of cold or fever, give Dr. True's Elixir—for it is the right kind—pleasant to take, with no griping or distressing aftereffects.

Nearly every grown-up and every child needs a laxative. In Dr. True's Elixir only pure herbs are used. No harmful drugs. Keep the bowels regular by using Dr. True's Elixir.

Want to Feel Just Right?

Take an NR Tonight

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. That "foggy," headachy, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your over-worked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oil, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only force the bowels and prod the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test.

Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work.

And oh, what a relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better every way. If habitually or stubbornly constipated, take one NR Tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just an occasional NR Tablet after that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition—keep you feeling your best.

TREMONT SLIPS INTO MYSTIC

10,000 See Schooner aunched at Somerville After 32 Months' Building

The long delayed "thrill of life" has been felt along the keel of the good ship Tremont at last. After thirty-two months of vicissitudes on the ways the now famous four-masted schooner was launched in the Mystic River, Somerville, and today is tied up at Barrett wharf, East Boston.

Ten thousand people, including many public officials, saw Miss Annie A. Ferullo smash a bottle of Italian wine against her bow and cheered lustily as she slipped gracefully into the Mystic, near the Wellington bridge almost exactly where Governor Winthrop built the first Yankee ship, "The Blessing of the Bay" in 1631.

Everything was in readiness at the Mystic River Ship Company yards for the launching on Monday afternoon, but Deputy Sheriff Henry L. Walker held up the launching because there was an attachment on the vessel. A surety bond of $50,000 was produced and the launching was allowed to go on. Two towboats met the schooner in the middle of the river and towed her to the Barrett Wharf in East Boston.

Senator Alvin E. Bliss of Malden, Senator-elect Charles Austin of Somerville, Simon Swig, vice-president of the Tremont Trust Company; several members of the Legislature and city officials of Somerville witnessed the launching.

THREE NATIONS CONDEMN SPY

Secret Death Penalty Passed on Ignatius Lincoln of International Notoriety

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Dec. 1.—Sentence of death to be secretly carried out, is said to have been passed upon Ignatius Trebitch Lincoln, former member of British Parliament, but better known to fame as "International Spy," by three secret military groups in as many different countries. Lincoln was chief press censor in the Kapp revolution here last March.

Lincoln is a Hungarian Jew by birth whose parents live in Budapest. He emigrated, became a minister of the Church of England, then managed to be elected to Parliament. He was arrested in New York after the outbreak of war at the request of the British on the charge of being in the espionage service of Germany. There he wrote a book, "The Revelations of An International Spy." As the United States government refused to surrender him on a political charge, he was demanded and extradited on the charge of forgery and given three and a half years in England.

As a result of his activities in the Kapp revolution, a warrant was issued for him in Germany. He is alleged to have engaged in the services of some of the Russian reactionary groups, is said to have obtained some of the plans of one of the Hungarian secret leagues of officers and is also reputed to have been in the confidence of a little group of German militarists engaged in anti-Bolshevik plans. He was last heard from in Prague.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy — If You Know D Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young — to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is Quickest Relief Known

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken usually breaks any cold right up.

The very first dose opens clogged nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" costs only a few cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, contains no quinine—Insist upon Pape's!

Every Picture Tells a Story

Is Backache Making You Miserable?

IT isn't right to drag along from day to day feeling weak, miserable—half sick. You want to be well, and the best way to get well is to find out what is making you feel so badly and try to correct it. Perhaps it's your kidneys. A cold, a strain, worry or overwork may have weakened the kidneys and brought on that throbbing backache or those sharp, stabbing pains that wear your nerves and keep you tired, fretful, "all unstrung." You may have morning lameness, too, headaches, dizzy spells and irregular kidney action. Don't wait! Neglect may mean more serious troubles—dropsy, gravel or dangerous Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of ailing folks. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Boston Cases:

Sumner Street (East Boston)

Phineas M. Ruggles, 132 Sumner St., says: "Kidney trouble got hold of me a few months ago so I could hardly work. To bend over was almost impossible, and it was hard to straighten. At times the pains would shoot through my kidneys that felt like the cut of a sharp knife. I would have to get up frequently during the night to pass the kidney secretions, too. A fellow workman told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and that he was sure they would cure me. I had hardly commenced to use them when I felt better in every way. My work was made lots easier, too. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills and they serve me well at all times."

Warren Street

Miss G. Dennett, 105 Warren St., gave the following statement, February 8, 1919: "My kidneys were in a bad condition and I felt dull and run down. My back was weak and lame and my kidneys caused me a great deal of annoyance. I used Doan's Kidney Pills as directed, and they soon relieved all signs of the trouble. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers, for I know they are worthy of a trial."

On September 27, 1920, Miss Dennett added "A year ago I told of the relief Doan's Kidney Pills gave me, and as I haven't had any return of the trouble I believe the cure is a permanent one."

N Street (South Boston)

Carl Madsen, painter, 163 N St., says: "The turpentine has affected my kidneys and caused them to become disordered several years ago. At times when I would bend ovgr I couldn't straighten up without putting my hands on my back. Sharp pains would catch me in my kidneys so that it felt as though a knife were sticking in my back. I was advised to get Doan's Kidney Pills, and a couple of boxes soon relieved all the trouble and I haven't had any kidney ailment since. I sure can say Doan's Kidney Pills can't be equalled as a cure for kidney trouble."

Sudbury Street

C. A. Hofman, prop., picture frame factory, 55 Sudbury St., says: [illegible] have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have been [illegible]tly helped by them. Standing so much on my [illegible] during the day caused my kidneys to become [illegible]. My back was weak and I had a constant [illegible] through the small part of it. I found it hard t[illegible] any bending or lifting, and my kidneys were irregular in action. Whenever I have been troubled this way Doan's Kidney Pills have given me relief and I am certainly glad to recommend them."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—"Jas. Doan."

East Fifth Street (South Boston)

Mrs. R. Sparks, 698 E. 5th St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine kidney remedy. Some time ago I had rheumatic pains in my knees and they became badly swollen. For two years and a half I was bothered this way until I thought I would never get over it. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to say they soon began to help me. I kept on with Doan's for several months and finally got such relief that I seldom have any sign of the old trouble. I sleep and rest well nights, too. I always keep Doan's in the house, for they are the best remedy for old people to use to regulate the kidneys and keep them strong."

Stocks Weak at Noon; Call Money 7%; Exchange Steady

RAILS RECEDE IN NEW YORK

Oils Are Firm and Steels Irregular; Price Range Narrow During the Morning

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, but above their morning lowest. There was a little improvement in the second hour. Rails remaind weak. Oils were firm and steels irregular. The market was active, first hour transactions totalling 232,000 shares. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange was steady at the start, demand sterling being quoted at $3.48. Francs were unchanged and lire and marks were a shade higher.

Among stocks to show the largest losses were American Woolen, Baldwin, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, Tobacco Products, Endicott Johnson, Vanadium and Stromberg. At their lowest they were off from one to two points. At its highest Atlantic Gulf was up 2¼. Othtr strong issues were Mexican Petroleum, Invincible, Royal Dutch and Replogle. They advanced a point or more.

OFF AT THE OPENING.

Prices were off at the opening, there being three stocks down to one up on initial transactions. The market was quiet and the price movement was narrow on the whole. During the first hour a number of issues sold at new lows for the year, including Ship and Commerce, Kennecott and Vanadium. New Haven began at its low of yesterday and soon sold at a new record low. Oils made the best showing and were led by Invincible. This issue advanced nearly two points inside of half an hour. Most rails were fractionally lower, but Southern Pacific declined more than a point. Steels acted like the carriers. Motors were irregular, coppers weak and equipments, barring Baldwin, were neglected. Atlantic Gulf was a strong shipping stock. Early trading in sugars was negligible.

RAIL RETURNS DISAPPOINTING.

A batch of railroad reports as to October earnings were made public yesterday, and while some were fairly satisfactory as to net, such exhibits were disappointing on the whole. Operating expenses have increased about as fast as gross and the new rates are not yielding the expected margin of profit. Latest statements by most industrial concerns are in marked contrast to those published earlier in the year. The outlook is not favorable for any immediate improvement and consequently when measured by prospective earning power, the stocks of many corporations have ceased to tempt purchasers. The money situation is a little easier, but Wall Street loans have been greatly reduced and the improvement is largely because of curtailment of speculation. Business is slow and will probably continue to slacken until the period of price readjustments is over.

PLAN SHORTER HOURS TO CUT STEEL WAGES

It is reported from Youngstown and Pittsburgh that independent steel managers plan to put employes, after January 1, on an eight hour basis instead of a twelve hour basis. This will virtually cut wages 33 1-3 per cent. and will affect between 40,000 and 45,000 in Youngstown alone.

It was explained that the system will be adopted in an effort to keep the forces intact and give employment to as many men as possible. The payment of time and a half overtime, the rule during the war, will be stopped.

UNTERMYER OFFERS TO FIGHT RYAN'S BATTLES

New York, Dec. 1.—Samuel Untermyer today notified Allan F. Ryan of Stutz Motors corner fame that he would represent him in any dealings growing out of Ryan's financial affairs, under condition that Ryan permit his son, Alvin Untermyer, and Harold Content to work out Ryan's case under the direction of the senior Untermyer, who said that his time is largely taken up with public duties. Ryan replied to Untermyer accepting the latter's conditions.

Washigton, Dec. 1.—Schedules containing changed rates, rules and regulations governing the diversion and reconsignment of fruits and vegetables throughout the United States which were to become effective today, has been suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission until March 31.

New York, Dec. 1.—Pierre S. Du Pont was elected president of the General Motors Corporation at a meeting of the board of directors held here. He succeeds W. C. Durant, whose holdings in the corporation Du Pont recently purchased.

Bond Interest Advanced

The Interstate Commerce Commission advanced the money to pay December 1 interest on the first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds of the Mason City & Fort Dodge Ry. Co., a Chicago & Great Western leased line. A bondholders' protective committee was organized, and Alfred A. Cook, as counsel for the committee, appeared with several of its members and F. J. Lisman at a meeting arranged by the Interstate Commerce Commission with the Chicago & Great Western officials.

Last Day for Exchange

December 6 is the last day on which stockholders of the Great Western Petroleum Company may exchange their shares for those of Western States. Great Western Petroleum shares should be forwarded immediately with proxies to the company's office in Denver, after which they will be transferred if ratification is made, into Western States shares.

COPPERS DOWN IN BOSTON

Rails Also Yield on the Local Exchange; Curb Is Quiet and Heavy

The Boston market was weak at the start and failed to rally during the first hour, reflecting the trend in New York. New England rails continued weak. Boston & Maine opened at a low for the year and New Haven at a record low. Coppers were heavy from the start, Osceola and Calumet and Hecla selling at their lowest prices for years. Atlas Tack went to a new 1920 low. Packing issues eased off. They were quiet. Among the most active stocks were New Haven, United Shoe and Bigheart. The price range was narrow during the morning. United Fruit advanced a point and point or more losses were sustained by Calumet and Arizona, Agricultural Chemical and International Cement. Calumet and Hecla dropped two points to 240 on one sale.

Among stocks to show fractional losses were: American Telephone, American Woolen preferred, New Haven, United Shoe, Ventura, U. S. Smelting, Old Dominion, Osceola, Atlas Tack, Swift & Co., Swift International, Gray & Davis and Walworth. Small gains were made by National Leather, Simms Magneto, Maine Central and Davis-Daly.

CURB HAS DULL START.

The curb had a very dull start and more stocks were off than up at the opening and later in the forenoon. Early leaders were Boston & Montana, Texana and United Verde Extension. Gains at the start were made by Arizona Silver, Arizona Tip Top, Boston & Montana, Eureka and Superior Oil, while issues to recede at the outset included Manhattan, Merrimac Development, Ophir, Texana, Verde Mines and United Verde Extension.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was up 2 cents at 44 cents, Texana 2 cents at 31 cents, Eureka 3 cents at 60 cents, and United Verde Extension ¼ at 23¾. Among declines were Arizona Extension 1 cent at 2 cents, Merrimac Development 2 cents at 10 cents, and Verde Mines 7 cents at 28 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES

Newly chartered Massachusetts corporations are the Howard Piano Co., of Boston, capital $100,000, and Davis Co., Inc., of Boston, wearing apparel, capital $150,000.

Manchester Traction, Light and Power stockholders have voted to increase stock from $3,864,000 to $4,250,000 by issuing 3,860 new shares at par, $100.

The Boston Mexican Petroleum Trust has purchased a perpetual lease of 2662 acres in the Corbin pool, Miami county, Kansas.

The stock of Orpheum Circuit, Inc., is being steadily absorbed by persons in the Middle West. Directors meet for dividend action on common shares today.

PRICE OF COPPER IS STILL DECLINING

The price of copper is still going down. It was reported from New York yesterday electrolytic had been sold in London for American account at 86 shillings a ton, for January delivery, which is equivalent to 12¾ cents a pound aside ship at New York.

There is little buying in this country on domestic account and the nominal price is 13½ cents a pound for deliveries up to April next. One copper authority says he expects the domestic price to reach 13 cents.

Firestone Tire Reductions

Reductions by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. affect both stockholders and employes. The dividend rate on common was reduced from 8 per cent. to 6 per cent. a year, while salaries were cut 10 per cent.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Dec. 1.—An unexpected recovery in Liverpool following early weakness caused a firm opening of the cotton market, first prices showing a net rise of 25 to 48 points. Wall street and the trade were good buyers on the advance, while New Orleans and other Southern interests sold. The firmness at the start was fairly well maintained and at the end of twenty minutes the list was about 35 points higher, helped by a late cable reporting a better demand for the spot article from the continent. Opening prices were: December, 15.70; January, 15.70; March, 15.90; May, 16.00; July, 16.05; October, 15.95.

BROTHERS HELD IN BOND THEFT

Head Messenger Taken on Plot Charge in $476,000 Robbery

International News Service.

New York, Dec. 1.—Police detectives hoped today, through severe grilling of Tony Di Gregario, 21, general head messenger boy in the Kean, Taylor & Co. offices to trace the daylight theft yesterday of $476,000 in Liberty bonds in Brooglyn.

The messenger was charged with acting in concert in the robbery. He was one of the few persons who had advance knowledge that the Kean, Taylor & Company intended to make delivery of the negotiable securities.

Locked up with Tony was his brother, Joseph Di Gregario, who, police say, was arrested a year ago in connection with a loft robbery. Joseph was taken into custody after Tony admitted he had received two telephone calls Tuesday forenoon, one of which was from his brother. He would not explain the other call.

When Joseph Di Gregario was taken to headquarters, he declared, according to detectives, he had not telephoned his brother. Joseph said he had been at home since 3 p. m., when he returned from paying a furniture bill. The boy's mother was questioned by detectives, who said she told them Joseph had been absent from home from 8 a. m. yesterday until 7 p. m. The theft occurred at 2 p. m., not far from Williamsburg bridge, and ten feet from the entrance of the firm which was to receive the bonds.

The two messengers carrying the bonds in a satchel were knocked down by four men, described as resembling Italians, who fired two shots, ran to a waiting automobile and disappeared.

Austin Young, the messenger who carried the bonds, said that prior to going to lunch he had requested Tony Di Gregario to have a satchel ready for carrying the bonds at 1 p. m.

Volstead Act Flayed by Gallagher

Declaring the Volstead Act unpopular, United States District Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher told members of the Newton Board of Trade at a banquet at the Newton Club that it was the outgrowth of hypocrisy.

"It brings unwholesome results that are bound to breed trouble," he said. "It is not looked on as constitutional and the average citizen would not raise a hand to enforce it. It simply means that the rich may have their liquor and the poor must go without it."

PAIR ARRESTE AFTER HOLDUP

Face Charges of Robbing Ro bury Storekeeper and Pedestrian in Back Bay

Two men were arrested early today by the police of the East Dedham Street Station in connection with two robberies which took place during the night.

At the time of arrest the men were armed and, according to the police in the Roxbury and Back Bay districts, where the robberies took place, the prisoners fit the description of the holdup men.

Hyman F. Schaffer, of Myrtle street, West End, one of the victims of the robbers, conducts a furnishings store at No. 1930 Washington street, Roxbury. He was relieved of $15 and a gold watch after he was struck over the head while fitting a pair of shoes to one of the men.

Lorenzo Claravall of No. 560 Columbus avenue, South End, the other victim, was held up on St. Botolph street, by two armed men and robbed of $20 in money a few paces from Massachusetts avenue.

On the description of the men given by Claravall the police of the South End picked up the pair now in custody. It is claimed by the police that they admit the Back Bay job, but claim they know nothing of the Roxbury robbery.

SUN ON STRIKE IN NOVEMBER

Last Month Darkest Recorded in 26 Years at Weather Bureau

November was the darkest month in Boston in twenty-six years, according to the United States Weather Bureau here. It was a warm month, as Novembers go, the average temperature being above normal. But there were many days without sunshine, in contrast to the pleasant days of October. Snowfall was unusually light.

The sun was apparently on a "strike" last month, for there was very little sunshine. The average was 29 per cent, or far below the average. There were but two days when 100 per cent. of sunshine was recorded, those days being November 13 and 14. In the last half of the month, sunshine was recorded on but four days, November 18, 19, 26 and 30. And then the sun came out perhaps on "picket duty."

Rainfall was far above the average, the month just closed being one of the wettest this year. During the month 5.42 inches of rain fell, as compared with the average for Novembers of 4.10 inches. There were a couple of heavy rain and wind storms, which did considerable damage on land and sea.

The heaviest rainfalls were on November 16 and 17, when 1.97 inches fell. But the storms of the twenty-first and twenty-third were old-time nor'easters. The rainfall amounted to 1.49 inches, but the gale was terrific. The wind averaged fifty-nine miles an hour, the extreme velocity being sixty-two miles.

Only 1.08 inches of snow fell, the heaviest on November 21 and November 25. There were several "flurries," but not enough to make an official record of depth. These were entered in the official archives as "traces." Snowfall was below the usual allotment for November.

AIMS TO STOP VIVISECTION

Mrs. Hooper Would Prevent Experiments on Animals by Amateurs

Many dogs and cats are missing from their reputable homes in this city.

Some of them have been traced to the den of a would-be scientific operator.

These dogs and cats are being sacrificed yearly to the whims of youthful vivisectionists in Greater Boston.

At a meeting of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society in Tremont Temple, Mrs. Arthur W. Hooper, a member of the society, made these assertions and pleaded for a law which would not allow every scientifically inclined youth of Boston to secret away a cat or dog and then make a number of experiments upon them in the name of Science.

"We would like to abolish vivisection everywhere and endorse the attempt made recently in California towards this end," she said.

"There should be a law in every State against this indiscriminate vivisection of cats and dogs by novices. We aim to have vivisection wiped out of existence, but we must go at it gradually."

A RAW, SORE THROAT

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole.

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use.

At any drug store named below, a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Simply present the pon.

Watch the results—they are quick and apparent. You will now then what this method means, both to you and yours.

Go get this tube today.

We Invite You
To see how really clean teeth shine

Men who smoke
e a quick, conspicuous change

acco stains the film-coat on the th. So men who smoke will see a great change quickly. But millions of teeth have that same film-coat with a lesser stain.

Children's teeth are most affected by the film. Young teeth seem most subject to decay. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be daily applied from the time the first tooth appears. Otherwise, decay is almost certain.

Pepsodent brings to women whiter, prettier teeth. But that means cleaner teeth and safer. The luster comes from constant film removal and the high polish given to the teeth.

Your teeth are coated with a film. When fresh the film is viscous—you can feel it with your tongue. Later it forms a cloudy coat. It enters crevices and stays. It dims the teeth, and now we know that it causes most tooth troubles.

There is now a way to end it. This week your druggist, if you ask, will give you a 10-Day Tube. Get it and see what it does for your teeth. Learn what film removal means.

Old ways don't end it

Old ways of brushing do not end film. Millions of people know that. Teeth discolor and decay despite the daily care.

The reason lies in film. It clings and hides, and very few escape its damage.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing — some have grown alarming. And all because we knew no way to daily fight the film.

A new dental era

Dental science has for years studied to combat film. Ways have now been found to do it. Able authorities have proved those methods by many careful tests. Now leading dentists everywhere are urging their daily use.

These methods have been combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions of people have come to employ it. You can see the results wherever you look — in glistening teeth, in teeth you envy, maybe.

A new dental era has begun, due to these discoveries. And these are benefits everyone should share. So you are urged to let this 10-Day Tube show what Pepsodent can do.

Brings five effects

Pepsodent brings five distinct effects. All are apparent, some are quick. A few days' use will leave no doubt about them. And a little book will tell you what each one means to you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling.

The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied at once. This is to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Every application brings the Pepsodent effects. Together they mean tooth protection like you never had before.

Watch these effects. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Compare your teeth now with your teeth in ten days. Then judge this new-day method by what you see and feel and know.

MERRY MUSIC AT TREMONT

"Sweetheart Shop" Proves Tuneful and Mirth-Provoking Piece of Action

"The Sweetheart Shop," a musical offering, appears in Boston for the first time this week at the Tremont Theatre. The piece, in three acts, is in the book and lyrics, the work of Anne Caldwell; as to music, it is the production of Hugo Felix.

The plot of the comedy would not bring wrinkles to the brow to unravel. Beyond the situation, quite novel, wherein one Blount conducts a sweeheart shop, from which he guarantees his brides and grooms for one year's constancy, the play is not startling as to story.

But when it comes to most alluring costumes, to very pretty girls, to singing that is sweet, and to music which pleases, the "Sweetheart Shop" may take its place beside many favorites.

Perhaps the most entertaining comedienne seen in a long while in Boston was Esther Howard who, as Minerva Butts, fresh from the pickle factory, yearns for romance and moods futuristic, and gets them, before the curtain goes down for the last time.

Harry K. Morton, as Peter Potter, versatile, not to say acrobatic hero and, finally, husband of Minerva, pleases.

But there were others who pleased very much. They were Joseph Lertora, as Lorimer, the Greenwich Village sculptor; Zela Russe, as Daphne, Mary Harper, as Mildred Blount; and Helen Ford, who, as Natalie, sang sweetly and danced prettily. Roy Gordon put American business pep into his part of Blount, proprietor of the "shop."

Daniel Healey, Marion Saki and Clay Hill deserve mention, as does a sprightly, lithe-limbed, youthful chorus, and a particularly curly-haired young chorus man, blond and smiling, who stood out among a quartet as an unusual type for the place.

The "Sweetheart Shop" included among the musical numbers, "Is There Any Little Thing I Can Do For You?" "I Want to Be a Blooming Blushing Bride," and "Waiting for the Sun to Come Out."

DR. CONROY'S FUNERAL IN EVERETT TOMORROW

The funeral of Dr. Peter J. Conroy of No. 355 Broadway, Everett, who died last Saturday, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. LAWRENCE CORPORATION TAX INCOME $623,853

Lawrence, Dec. 1.—The largest corporation tax in the history of the city will be paid this year, according to figures made known by City Treasurer William A. Kelleher. Lawrence will receive $623,853.82 as compared to $220,000. The reason for the advance is due to the high valuation of mill stocks, when the valuation was figured. More than half the tax has already been paid.

ARREST ALLEGED MASTER FORGER

C. E. Schlegel, Facing 24 Counts, Had Suit Cases Filled With Checks

Charged on twenty-four counts with larceny and forgery, Charles E. Schlegel, aged twenty-six, said to be wanted for similar offences in many large cities of the country, was arrested by Inspectors Finn and Flaherty. He first denied he was the man sought, but when confronted with a mass of evidence he admitted his identity.

Two suit cases filled with blank checks which bore the names of banks in many sections of the nation, were found in his Newbury street apartment. A filing case containing cancelled checks was also taken by the police.

Will Monkey Glands Make Weak People Strong?

Evidence Seems to Be Convincing That Anaemia and General Run-down Condition Are Due to Run-down Glands

New Gland Tablets Guaranteed to Bring Decided Results in 10 Days or Money Refunded

Have you read the newspaper accounts reproduced here? They are so interesting and may mean so much to thousands of readers of this paper that they deserve repetition. They tell the story of the reported remarkable results from the use of monkey and other animal glands in making decrepit old men young and restoring health and strength to young men and women who have become run-down.

Whoever thinks these are unusual cases should keep their eye on the press reports of similar medical victories and know that many physicians are now treating weaknesses of both men and women in this modern, scientific way.

Scientists tell us that in the glands they have found a vital secret of life which are called "hormones." To find these essential chemical elements which they have discovered help control organs, blood, nerves and tissue-building, they now go straight to life itself and from healthy, young cattle and sheep, take the gland-power which we need and prepare it in tablet form, so it may be taken pleasantly and conveniently.

For Young and Old

It should not be supposed that gland extracts are effective only with prematurely old people. They are being used extensively by young men and women who are anaemic, run-down, nervous, thin, pale and weak, with results that seem little short of surprising. As a tonic and strength-builder, animal gland substance, it would seem, has its greatest use.

The reason appears to be perfectly simple. According to those who have given this new treatment the greatest thought, our health and vigor depend largely on the glands which help govern the activity of muscles, brain and organs.

So when we become run-down, gland extracts from animals may be used to supply the very substance which the glands have failed to produce. And the purpose is that the cause of the run-down conditions be attacked. This idea of using animal extracts is not in itself new; pepsin, which has been used for years for indigestion, comes from the stomach of animals.

While it may seem almost too good to be true, there have been reports of people who almost doubled their strength and vitality by this theory and frequently results are said to be felt the first few days. In fact it would sometimes look as though there was little reason for being run-down, worn out and nervous, or of growing prematurely old, for gland extracts from vigorous sheep and cattle can now be purchased at any drug store under the name of Glandex Compound, which also contains peptonate of iron—perhaps the best known blood builder.

Free Trial—Guaranteed

You are not asked to risk a single cent to find out how Glandex Compound may give you the buoyant, lively spirit of youth, a firm elastic step, bright eyes, rosy cheeks, the strength and endurance and the hearty appetite of the rejuvenated mind and body. All you have to do is to take Glandex Compound according to the simple directions for ten days. If, at the end of that time, results are not perfectly satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money at once without question or red tape, on your simple request.

This is the fairest offer that could be made, and it is only because of the success of the new gland extract treatment that it would be possible to back Glandex Compound with such a remarkable guarantee. Remember you risk nothing. Go to your druggist today as Glandex Compound is scarce because of the great demand. And remember, you risk nothing. The Glandex guarantee is backed by all the resources of the Glandex Company, Inc., 244 West 29th Street, New York.

How to Tell if Your Glands Are Starving

Gland extracts have secured so much publicity as a result of having helped people in so many ways that some may look upon them as a remedy for everything. This is a mistake. In order to correct this impression the laboratories have issued the following list of symptoms which might warrant the use of Glandex Compound (gland extracts in tablet form combined with iron) as a tonic.

Weakness. Thinness. Headache. Lack of Vitality. Mental Depression. Irritability. Nervousness. Despondency. Anaemia. Sluggishness. Sleeplessness. Paleness — And general run-down conditions.

"It is so strange," she said with that note of wonder at life in her voice which he [illegible] "that I should have come across Mr. Bentley here after so many years. How many years, Mr. Bentley?"

"Ah, my dear," he protested, "my measurements would not be yours."

"It is better for both of us not to say," Alison declared [illegible].

"You knew Mr. Bentley?" asked Hodder, astonished.

"He was a very dear friend of my mother's, although I use it [illegible] appropriate [illegible] came to our house. It was when we lived in Ransome street [illegible] ago, but I don't think Mr. Bentley has grown a bit older."

"He is one of the few who has found the secret of youth," said the rector.

But the old gentleman had moved off into the [illegible]—or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that he was carried off by the [illegible] which clustered around him, the smaller ones tugging at his [illegible] and all intent upon arriving at the soda-water pavilion near the entrance. They had followed him with their eyes, and they saw him turn around and smile at them helplessly. Alison presented a perplexed face to Hodder.

"Does he bring them here — or you?" she asked.

"I—" he hesitated. "Mr. Bentley has done this every Saturday afternoon for years," he said. "I am merely one of them."

She looked at him quickly. They had started to follow, in the cool path beneath the forest trees. Restraint fell upon them, brought about by the memory of the intimacy of their former meeting, further complicated on Hodder's part by his new attitude toward her father, and his finding her in the company, of all persons, of Mr. Bentley. Unuttered queries pressed on the minds of both.

"Tell me about Mr. Bentley," she said.

Hodder hesitated.

"I scarcely know where to begin," he replied, yet smiling at the characteristic abruptness of her question. The modulations of her voice revealed again the searching, inquisitive spirit within her and his responded to the intensity of the interest in Mr. Bentley.

"Begin anywhere."

"Anywhere?" he repeated, seeking to gain time.

"Yes — anywhere," she said impatiently.

"Well, he lives in Dalton street, if you recall what kind of a place that is" (she nodded), "and he is known from one end of it to the other."

"I see what he is—he is the most extraordinary person I have ever known. Just to talk to him gives one such a queer feeling of—of dissatisfaction with one's self and seeing him once more seems to have half revived in me a whole series of dead memories. And I have been trying to think, but it is all so tantalizing. There is some mystery about him [illegible] He disappeared suddenly [illegible] my mother never [illegible] but once afterward [illegible] persons have spoken of [illegible] I forget who. He was so [illegible] and he used to go to St. [illegible]

"[illegible] St. John's."

"What happened [illegible] I want to know? The reason he stopped coming to our house was a misunderstanding with my father, of course. I am positive my mother never changed her feelings toward him."

"I can only tell you what he has [illegible] and I know [illegible] their father," Hodder replied. How could he say to her that her father had ruined Mr. Bentley? Indeed, with a woman of her fearlessness and honesty, and above all her intuition—he felt the difficulty of his position keenly. Hodder did not relish half truths, and he felt that however scant his intercourse in the future might be with Alison Parr he would have liked to have kept it on the basis of frankness in which it had begun. But the exact stage of [illegible] had reached in regard to Eldon Parr was unknown to him and he feared that a further revelation might possibly sever the already precarious tie between father and daughter.

He recollected therefore that Mr. Bentley [illegible] and how he had before [illegible] given much of his [illegible]

BIG SQUAD HAS GREAT RECORD

Maroon and Gold Has Shown More Class Than Teams Rated More Highly

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Rating the Eastern college football teams before the facts are all in seems to have become a popular pastime.

In the newspapers of New York and Boston various writers have made their decisions and announced them and, while one of their number admits Boston College may be stronger than he believes, invariably they have headed their lists with either Princeton or Harvard and have introduced Penn State and Pittsburgh before naming B. C.

They may have correctly rated them by so doing, but [illegible] it will not be until [illegible] urday's Braves Field contest [illegible] Boston College [illegible] justified if B. C. [illegible] of expe[illegible] and [illegible] the contest.

A Boston College win over [illegible] O'Donnell's Purple array—particularly [illegible] will leave those who have been picking Princeton, Harvard, Penn State and Pittsburgh [illegible] Eastern [illegible] with Boston College [illegible]

Such a victory will give B. C. a perfect record and not [illegible] nearer [illegible] Virginia [illegible] the Middle West is able to [illegible] anything so impressive as B. C. will be able to, should it win Saturday's contest.

Penn State and Pittsburgh have been tied twice and [illegible] other occasions, while [illegible] and Harvard have a tie game [illegible] their respective records, with [illegible]ton outplaying Harvard [illegible] Virginia outplaying Princeton [illegible] course of their season [illegible] B. [illegible] B. C. offensive Saturday. The rival style of play will be gone over thoroughly and every Holy Cross athlete would be well acquainted with the position when the big moment arrives.

From present indications, the team that will start Saturday's game will be: Young and Brannon, ends; Captain Conway and McGrath, tackles; [illegible] and Healey, guards; Gildea, centre; Smith, quarterback; Gagnon and [illegible]linger, half backs, and Flynn [illegible]. However these men will just [illegible] the game. Wyland, Donovan, [illegible]mbessie, Leplante, Cooney, Riordan and Wallingford are all sure to get in there.

If Boston is as much "het up" over [illegible] as Worcester is, they'll [illegible] "pack em in" at Braves Field. It is expected that 5,000 Worcesterites at least will be among those present when Captains Garah Conway of Holy Cross and Luke Urban of Boston College shake hands.

Many will make the trip by auto; [illegible] have been hired weeks in advance. All want to see Holy Cross [illegible] of three straight [illegible] for the Purple [illegible]

[illegible] Crimson or the Tiger gain an edge on B. C.

As far [illegible] B. C. [illegible] schedule, the games [illegible] Marietta [illegible] contests coming between its game with Holy Cross, Princeton and Yale.

The Braves Field game Saturday may count B. C. out of the running, but if B. C. does the expected to Holy Cross, we can see no reason why B. C.'s claim to the Eastern title won't top that of any of the four teams now being placed in the Eastern van, or grouped with B. C. as having equally strong claims.

Public Sale Started For B. C. Game

More than 15,000 seats have already been disposed of for the Boston College-Holy Cross game, it was announced by Graduate Manager Reynolds, and an additional section of 5,000 has been issued for sale.

The public sale opened today at Building Fund Headquarters, No. 40 Court street, also at Shuman's, Wright & Ditson's and Horace Partridge's.

Holy Cross has filed a solid block of three sections, one of which will be the cheering section, so the Purple warriors are assured of the best and noisiest [illegible]

SUBS WORK OUT IN B. C. LINE

Team Awaits X-ray Findings on Fitzpatrik's Hurt Shoulder

The [illegible] who are [illegible] of work for the Maroon [illegible]

[illegible] As [illegible] received [illegible] degrees [illegible] grave their cognomens on the [illegible] roster.

Jim Fitzpatrick appeared in "civies" and brought bad news; that his shoulder had slipped out of place while being examined, and was far from being in as good shape as was at first thought. The X-ray plates were to be ready today; what they say will practically determine for how long a period the famous Maroon and Gold ace will be able to stay in Saturday's lineup.

At present it is feared that he will only get in for a drop-kick or some such emergency.

Bill Kelleher, who started off the season at fullback, is back again at his old berth; according to present indications he will alternate with Tom Swan in the final tussle unless Fitz remains in longer than seems probable.

The Cambridge lad is coming along fast as a punter, and it would not be at all surprising to see him looming up as first-string kicker next season.

Jim Kennedy is loyally sticking by the guns in spite of the fact that his playing season terminated with his retirement from the Georgetown game last week. Kennedy is helping out "Moose" Englehorn with the seconds and grooming Kempf who may get in the final game for a few minutes at quarter.

[illegible] started [illegible] with the [illegible] which [illegible] Georgetown [illegible] A [illegible] from [illegible] Manager Kellison of Marietta [illegible] again next season. This is the first word that has passed regarding next season's schedule, and Boston football followers, well pleased with the brilliant work shown by the Marietta eleven, would certainly [illegible] the chance to see them [illegible] again.

Manager Kellison told also of the crowds which were packed around the bulletin boards in the Ohio city when returns of the game were coming in. He stated that opinion out there rated the B. C. eleven as the best in the country.

SHEVLIN STOPS DONOVAN

Roxbury Boxer Entirely Too Speedy and Enemy Gives Up in 4th

By JACK CONWAY

Eddie Shevlin's punch is still breezing along merrily on all cylinders as he proved when he stopped Mickey Donovan of Brockton in four rounds at the Armory A. A. show at [illegible] Building.

When [illegible] first burst upon the pugilistic horizon, he won his matches by his speed and skill. The old wallop, however, now gains the honors.

Donovan, one of the toughest of the new crop of New England welterweights, was completely outclassed by Roxbury's veteran.

The rivals started fighting at a lively pace in the opening round. Shevlin was the aggressor and scored with some stiff left hand punches to the head and body. Donovan was very nervous and as a result missed quite a number of his swings. It was Shevlin's round by a wide margin.

[illegible] his boring in tactics [illegible] chapter. He made [illegible] Early [illegible] he fell into a [illegible]

Donovan Again Scores With His Right

S[illegible] was a [illegible] more careful when he resumed hostilities. He jab[illegible] the jaw a couple of times. Donovan's success with his right gave him confidence and he met his rival in the centre of the ring and engaged in an exchange of broadsides.

Donovan once more managed to slip a man's-sized right hand punch past Shevlin's defence. The Roxbury man immediately stepped to close quarters to avoid further punishment. It was apparent at this stage of the game that Donovan's only chance was at long range fighting. Shevlin merely played with him at close quarters.

Donovan's success with his right gave him an even break for the second frame.

Shevlin Scored Heavily With Body Punches

The third round was a procession for Dartmouth Eddie. He left-handed Donovan at long range and walloped him lustily with lefts and rights when at close quarters. Jess Willard didn't stop any more wallops out at Toledo than Donovan did in the third chapter.

The Brockton man was weak when the dear old chimes sounded taps. After assimilating the usual amount of cold water and fatherly advice between rounds [illegible] Donovan ventured forth bravely to take [illegible] the fourth session.

Shevlin went after [illegible] like the master workman [illegible] is. He ridded Donovan [illegible] lefts and right hand [illegible] body until Mickey doubled [illegible] quickly shifted [illegible] jaw and Donovan dropped to the canvas. A few more [illegible] to the body and then a right to the jaw and the Brockton favorite dropped to the canvas again. A towel [illegible] from Donovan's corner ended the [illegible] as Mickey struggled to his feet at the count of four. He was game, but hopelessly beaten.

Mickey Travers of New Haven was awarded the decision over Toney Julian of Brockton in the semi-final of eight rounds. It was a hard, gruelling battle and honors were about even when the mill ended. The fans exercised their vocal organs in making known their disapproval of the verdict of the judges.

DEMPSEY FIGHTS JESS IN MARCH

Champion and Willard Matched in New York on 17th "if" Former Beats Brennan

Willard, Dempsey received $27,500 in Liberty bonds. Willard, then champion, received $100,000.

[illegible] for the return fight are not known beyond the fact that the financial arrangement will be reversed—that Dempsey, now the champion, will receive more than Willard, the ex-champion, who is anxious to regain the heavyweight title.

The writer knows that the boxers have already signed articles for the return fight. Willard's signed contract was received by Rickard four days ago, with one slight and amusing correction made on the copy which Rickard sent him.

Willard, despite the fact that Dempsey subjected him to a terrific beating, apparently is not convinced of his conqueror's prowess.

Dempsey, a victory-mad tigerish fighter, knocked his huge opponent down seven times in the first round of the Toledo contest and completely outclassed him.

The giant pathetically helpless before Dempsey, who seemed a dwarf beside him when they were both on their feet, was beaten worse than any [illegible] ever was.

Willard in Training for Three Months

Willard, however, is not thoroughly convinced of Dempsey's superiority for in the signed contract which he sent to Rickard the ex-champion wrote in an "if" clause which will doubtless interest those who believe Dempsey is invincible. It will doubtless also interest Bill Brennan, whom Dempsey is to meet in the Garden on the 14th of this month.

The "if" clause is to the effect that Willard will meet Brennan if Brennan defeats Dempsey when they meet.

Meanwhile, Willard is preparing for the fight. For the last three months he has been training on his farm in Kansas. Billy Sandow, manager of "Strangler" Lewis, the wrestler, is one of Willard's neighbors, and Sandow, who is now in New York with Lewis says that Willard has been working harder for the return match with Dempsey than he did for the Toledo fight.

At Toledo Willard confined his training to boxing and casual calisthenics and novelties. These novelties interested those who paid to see him in his daily workouts, but Willard neglected one very important phase of his preparatory work, and Willard lost.

Never an enthusiast over the exacting demands of a vigorous and thorough training process, Willard regarded road work as a thing of horror. He avoided it as a bicyclist avoids Fifth avenue in the late afternoon rush.

To him it was a painful nuisance, but beyond a [illegible] he for it he was said to fear a breakdown if he spent too much time running on the roads.

Experts said that he feared a "flat tire," that he could not stand the punishing, gnawing effects of vigorous road work and that he preferred to improve his mind through the medium of other forms of training stunts.

Dempsey Has Great Confidence in Self

Willard did not break down on the roads because he stayed away from them. Where he did break down was in the ring, and he did that because he lacked the stamina which road work might have given him to withstand the terrific fusillade of blows which Dempsey shot at him.

Dempsey apparently does not have any doubt of his ability to repeat his victory over the giant from whom he won the heavyweight championship of the world.

Like the champions of old, the heavyweight champion of today believes he is supreme in his class and is willing to prove it. Willard thinks he can beat him. So Dempsey says Jess can have another chance.

Jim Jeffries also thought he was invincible. He met and defeated Fitzsimmons and Corbett and then gave each another opportunity to beat him. They accepted the opportunity, but were defeated.

B. C. Night Before at City Club

The senior class of Boston College will have a smoker and reunion of present and former B. C. men at the City Club Auditorium Friday night. It will also be an enthusiastic mass meeting for the B. C.-Holy Cross football game Saturday, as it will be a continuance of the "night before" custom, established several years ago.

Rev. William J. Devlin, S. J., will speak at the meeting, as will United States District Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher and Major Frank Cavanaugh, coach of the football team. The latter, by his dryly humorous talks, has established himself firmly as a speaker with the B. C. students.

Father Devlin will address the Boston College men for the first time this year; his presence means the attendance of many hundred alumni who remember him as professor of philosophy and later as dean.

The evening will be featured by a series of surprises. All present and former Boston College students are extended a cordial invitation, and an overflow audience is the outlook at present.

Besides President Charles A. Coyle of the 1921 class, the committee consists of Harold J. Sullivan, David E. Mullen, Francis E. Morrissey, Jeremiah Mahoney, John J. Kennedy, Morgan T. Ryan, Thomas F. O'Connor and Henry Ford.

WHITE SOX PURCHASE PACIFIC SWATTER

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The Chicago Americans purchased Earl Sheeley, first baseman with the Salt Lake City Club, who led the Pacific Coast League in batting last season with an average of .372. Sheeley made thirty-two home runs and fifty-five doubles. In addition to a cash consideration Byrd Lynn, a catcher, and Ted Jourdan, a first baseman, were given in the deal.

Golf War Is Declared by Western Officials

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Western Golf Association officials have renewed their war upon the United States Golf Association in a manner which seriously threatens the peace and quiet of the game in this country.

The Westerners hope to organize a new national golf association at their annual meeting in Chicago, January 16, which they will place in the field in competition with the United States Golf Association and which they trust will eventually drive the present governing body out of business.

The Westerners have undertaken a big proposition and will find rough going in their attempt to wrest the control of golf from the U. S. G. A., an organization which has a strangle hold on many of the most influential clubs and players, and which in many ways can show it has conducted the affairs of the game with credit.

Of course the United States Golf Association is not a perfect institution. It so happens, however, that its most glaring fault is a negative fault, and one which does not seriously hinder the development of the game in the United States, or the proper conduct of it. This fault is the snobbishness on the part of those in control, and their determination to retain the power among themselves.

Battle for Control of Governing Body

A charge that they have misused their power in any serious manner cannot be sustained.

Many of the changes in the conduct of the game which the Western officials seek to accomplish by means of a new national association could undoubtedly be brought about through the present government body if enough pressure was brought to bear. Some of the changes desired are unnecessary. The great point resolves down to who shall be in control, and it is doubtful if it is worth waging a golf war for the purpose of ousting from office the present smug bunch.

Summed up the Westerners make the following charges against the United States Golf Association:

"It has muzzled American golfers by tradition and oligarchical methods."

"The U. S. G. A. has refused to change its form of government so that all clubs shall have the right to vote."

"That the present rules are conflicting, unwieldly and often not practical for American links."

"That within the year officers of the U. S. G. A. refused to consider a proposal by Western officials to widen the scope of the National Association."

Any Club Can Become An Active Member

To take these charges up in order. The first is general. If true, not a serious enough offence to start a war over.

The U. S. G. A., so far as the writer is aware, has not refused to elect to active membership any club which is properly qualified for such membership. The U. S. G. A. has two classes of membership, active and allied. Only delegates of active clubs are allowed to vote, but an allied club can become active if it is willing to pay a small difference in the dues. It is safe to say that no well organized golf club in America would be refused active membership in the U. S. G. A. if it sought it.

The rules are a bit conflicting and unwieldly, but can be given necessary revision through the present organization if the golfers of America really want to get together and insist that the U. S. G. A. do it.

The charge that the officials of the U. S. G. A. refused a proposal by Western officials that the national organization be widened in scope is lamentable, but cannot be made as a direct charge unless the proposal is made officially at the annual meeting of the U. S. G. A. and turned down by the delegates there assembled.

We get back to the big bone of contention to wit: shall George H. Walker, Howard F. Whitney, W. D. Vanderpool, J. F. Byers, Edward S. Moore, Albert D. Locke, Harry Ayer, Robert Lesley and a few other gentlemen who have had the upper hand in the affairs of the U. S. G. A. be allowed to continue, or shall a war be waged in an effort to put them out.

Our opinion is that a war would [illegible] worse for the game than the continuance for a few more years of the men now in control. Even they must eventually recognize that golf is no longer confined to a few exclusive clubs, and elect to office those who are more representative of the entire golfing populace of the United States.

A war would be a long drawn out affair. It is certain that many of the large clubs and leading players would remain steadfast to the U. S. G. A. Others would join with the new organization and a break would occur in the ranks of golfers which would be a real menace to the development of the game.

SHAVER O'BRIEN FIT TO START TRAINING

Shaver O'Brien, who was obliged to withdraw from his match with Nate Siegal on account of boils, will resume training the latter part of the week. In ten days' time the South Boston warrior will be prepared to clash with the New England welterweight champion. Many of the fans who witnessed the Siegal-Butler bout were of the opinion that O'Brien could have beaten either man easily. Eddie Shevlin is the only New England welterweight who has scored as many wins during the past three months as O'Brien.

WELLING SUSPENDED BY WISCONSIN BOARD

Milwaukee, Dec. 1.—Joe Welling, Chicago boxer, has been suspended from fighting in Wisconsin for one year by the State Boxing Commission, it was announced. Referee Walter Houlehen and other witnesses testified that Welling had made no effort to do his best in a recent bout here with Lew Tendler.

Cheer for Navy

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1.—Navy's football team loses but three men by graduation next year—Captain Ewen, right end, and the guards, Moore and Wilkie. Next year's team should be one of the strongest teams the academy has ever had.

N. Y. Boxing Club Is Ruled Out

New York, Dec. 1.—The New York State Boxing Commission revoked the permit of the Central Manhattan Boxing Club, which staged the lightweight contest between Willie Jackson and Johnny Dundee. The commission announced it had taken this action because commissioners attending the contest had "witnessed infractions of the boxing law, the laws of safety and a complete disregard of the rights and comfort of ticket holders."

The club, which only opened last night, is the first to have its permit revoked.

ARMY OR MIDDIES FOR YALE SCHEDULE

New Haven, Dec. 1.—It is likely that an effort will be made to get either the Army or the Navy to come to the New Haven Bowl for a game. As permission was given for the Annapolis team to go to Princeton last Fall, it is likely that they could be secured. This would crowd the Bowl, it is believed, and help raise the debt for the construction.

Dr. Al Sharpe has been continued as Yale athletic director and the faculty and undergraduates hope he can be induced to remain, although he has several offers to re-engage in football coaching, and may accept one of them.

THREE TEN ROUNDERS AT COMMERCIAL SHOW

There will be an all-star show at the Commercial A. C. Friday night. Charley Sheppard will meet Tony Viera in one ten-round match, while in another Joe Melanson will oppose Joe Adams. Leo Gregory will box eight rounds with Joe McCarthy, while Steve Leonard and F. Morris will also travel the eight-round route.

BO McMILLIN COLONEL ON KENTUCKY STAFF

Danville, Ky., Dec. 1.—At a banquet given by the Chamber of Commerce to the Centre College football squad, Governor Morrow announced that he had made "Bo" McMillin, Centre's famous quarterback, a colonel on his staff.

BRENNAN SCRAP REAL TEST

Bout Will Give Dempsey Good Workout and Keep Champion Careful

By JAMES J. CORBETT

No fighter is whipped until the referee has ruled against him. Jack Dempsey will undoubtedly keep that truth in mind when he clashes with Bill Brennan in New York on December 14.

From most angles it looks like a rather easy fight for the champion. Brennan was a mighty tough citizen a few years ago and certainly gave Dempsey a hard tussle back in 1918.

Just the same, he was more or less of a mark for Dempsey in that contest and the "Utah Mauler" found no difficulty in hitting him.

But sending him down for the count, was another thing. Dempsey never did accomplish that. The best he could could get out of the fight was a victory via the technical knockout rule.

Dempsey punished Brennan so badly through the fourth and fifth rounds that in the next session of fighting the referee concluded that Brennan might come to injury if the battle was continued. So he stopped the affair and awarded the fight to the terrific punching youngster from the West.

Dying Fighter Often Puts Over Winning Blow

History is replete with incidents where a single punch of a "dying fighter" has turned the tide of battle and won the clash for him.

The records are full of one-punch knockouts; of victories achieved at a time when it seemed that the ultimate winner was the certain loser.

Dempsey has shown through three years of warfare that he is nearly impervious to a knockout wallop. But no man is absolutely so. And the fact cannot be denied that Brennan carries "dynamite" in his right hand.

He has knocked over more than fifty opponents in a few years—and his right does not seem to have lost any of its power.

If Brennan should happen to swing a right with all the drive that he can put into it and land it flush upon the chin of the champion, something dire is likely to happen to Dempsey.

But a single punch of that sort is about the only danger to the champion. If Brennan cannot slip it over, his chance of victory is slight indeed.

For sooner or later Dempsey is going to get in close enough to shoot out one of his terrible body punches. And when he does, it means the beginning of the end for Brennan.

SHAKEUP OF TEAM IS DUE

Former Cub Leader Signed by Grant to Rebuild Local Outfit

By NICK FLATLEY.

Fred Mitchell, former right eye of the Boston Braves, is now the whole set of optics. On his brawny shoulders has been dropped the job of hoisting the team out of the depths of the National League, as you might put it more or less grammatically.

Which is to say that Frederick has signed up for the managing job vacated recently by George T. Stallings. Fred is a good choice. He knows baseball from the executive and the playing end, he has led a team to a [illegible] and he is popular with the fans hereabouts.

Said collection of qualifications would make things look rosy for the Wigwamers, but for the fact that the team has as many holes as a sieve. We never counted the holes in a sieve, but we've watched the Braves quite a bit these last few seasons.

The appointment of Mitch came as no surprise, but the baseball populace feels a bit relieved to have it authenticated. It starts things moving, and with the games in the condition it is in in these parts, plenty of movement is necessary.

Mitchell Is Shrewd Baseball Trader

Mitch, who steered the Cubs last season, is naturally right onto the modern trading market. He had a lot of deals in view for his former club, and will try to pull a few of them over for the Braves now that he has the job. He's a shrewd sort of swapper and can be depended on to do business provided he has the well known sinews of war.

Owner Grant has declared time and again that he was ready to buy any time he saw a chance to improve the team regardless of cost. If Mitch is turned loose with that understanding, all will be well along the Charles and Commonwealth avenue.

Manager Stallings, who retired, was out of harmony with some of his athletes, and for that reason could never get the team going at top speed. A change was necessary and Mitchell can step in and command the respect that must be part of a successful manager's stock in trade.

There will be wholesale shifting on the outfit, anyhow, as owner Grant long ago decided that he didn't want quite a few of the performers who were depleting his treasury bi-monthly. With the game in its present unsettled condition there's a good chance right now for trading, and much of it will undoubtedly be done, when the magnates get together later in the month.

New Manager's Third Time With Braves

Manager Mitchell comes to the Braves for the third time in his baseball career. He first arrived when Stallings took charge of the team back in 1913. He was the coach, scout and advisory board during the drive for the pennant a year later and throughout the world series.

He remained with the Braves in 1915 and then resigned to take over the coaching job at Harvard. He was entirely successful with the Crimson but was weaned away from the college sport by the Chicago Cubs, who signed him as manager in 1917.

From now on, Manager Mitch will be on the job daily at Braves Field, and a prompt announcement of a few good looking trades would add quite a lot to his great popularity.

SPORT EDITORIAL

The Crooks Must Stay Out

The most important statement made by Judge Landis in his recent interview was that as long as he is connected with baseball the men involved in the world's series scandal of 1919 will not be permitted to return to the game.

It is in the power of the new ruler of baseball to make good this declaration.

He is in office as the ruler of the game for seven years. In seven years the baseball usefulness of the most brilliant of the crooked players will have passed, even if any magnate wanted to take advantage of public forgetfulness and bring them back.

Certain little signs of late portend an effort on the part of the remaining friends of the crooks to lift the pressure. Excuses are being put forward, alibis advanced.

No one wants to kick a man when he is down, and no one can begrudge or deny any of the guilty players a chance to redeem themselves in any other walk of life.

But the despicable action of the few players reflected to such an extent on baseball in general, and produced such a cloud, that they must not be permitted to return to the game. It would be a wellnigh fatal mistake.

The players may never be convicted in court, but some of them have been definitely convicted in public opinion, and baseball is no longer for them.

Forward Pass Helped Football Popularity

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Football, of the college variety, is at the end of its most successful, if not most brilliant season. More persons attended games this Fall than ever before, and the interest in the college game has spread over the entire country.

In the face of this prosperity come, from certain quarters suggestions to revert to the [illegible] and to [illegible] the forward pass [illegible] the game [illegible] the spectators as well as for the contestants. Percy Haughton, who was a great coach at Harvard, [illegible] forward pass [illegible] a return to the old style of [illegible] pushing [illegible].

It is [illegible] style of close formation straight [illegible] was a [illegible] and brawn than the modern game. But it is certain the overhead game has added to the [illegible] of the sport [illegible] and has vastly increased the [illegible].

It is probable that the rules ought to be changed to some extent [illegible] that the penalty for failing to complete a forward pass be [illegible], however, but the forward pass has come to stay. Anyone doubting this should have listened to the eighty thousand who gathered in Yale's Bowl to watch the Harvard game.

There was always a thrill of expectant hope that Yale would get away a forward pass and break the deadlock, [illegible] Harvard [illegible] succeed in getting a runner free with a passed ball for a long run. The forward pass to football adds the thrill that Babe Ruth's home runs did to baseball. The spectators want it.

Charges of Roughing Hurt Grid Game

There is one echo of the football season which is unpleasant. The charge that certain teams attempted to "get" certain stars of opposing teams have been bandied about [illegible] Princeton [illegible] officials [illegible] the Navy [illegible] Scheerer out of the game.

The statement has been made that opponents [illegible] tried to damage Davies of Pittsburgh, and the same charge was made [illegible] two games in which [illegible] played. In the [illegible] Harvard contest it was [illegible] remarked that [illegible] players tried to injure Kendrick.

[illegible] has been accused of vicious roughing, and [illegible] was charged with kicking a Georgia Tech man after a touchdown.

Such charges hurt the sport. In the games I witnessed this Fall there was extremely little dirty football. But there was constant and persistent roughing of stars who were out of the play entirely—indicating that orders were to play hard against certain men. I don't believe any coach orders football players to injure men [illegible].

The coach probably tells the boys to watch certain men carefully [illegible] and tackle them hard [illegible] does the rest. [illegible] which an excited [illegible] will go [illegible] when he gets orders [illegible] to play for a certain [illegible] big chances.

It is not sportsmanship and it certainly is not good football.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR GREEN BASKETERS

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 1.—Basketball practice got underway at Dartmouth with the arrival of Coach [illegible]. Plans have been made for a fast [illegible] year as the first game will be played on the home floor December [illegible] with Middlebury as opponents. [illegible] game [illegible] scheduled for the Christmas vacation.

Every man of last year's team is available this year. This, coupled with the fact that members of the [illegible] freshman outfit are out for places, would seem to indicate that the Green is going to be represented by the strongest five in years. Neiblowne will captain the team.

AJAX FAVORITE IN OPERA HOUSE BOUT

Mat fans will be present in droves at the meeting between Pinky [illegible] and Tom Ajax at the [illegible] Opera House [illegible]. Ajax, because of his craftiness, will [illegible] a slight favorite [illegible] has many admirers [illegible]. Among the [illegible] are several great wrestlers [illegible].

Frank [illegible] will [illegible] a short preliminary prior to the big number.

Filene's

SHOPS FOR MEN

THE constant lowering of prices on men's suits and overcoats to meet the lowered prices in the wholesale market has been accomplished at Filene's without brass bands or without reductions in quality.

Much has gone on inside the store, for the little that has come out in the papers. One man after another who has shopped and compared real value has come to us and volunteered the information that he "could do better here." That is why even a slackened demand has left us with a busy business.

For instance, standard Stein-Bloch oxford gray, all-wool suits at $40; nearly 200 all-wool suits and overcoats that were $35 to $45, now $25; and other substantial clothes for substantial men at substantial reductions. It will pay both you and us if you first look around!

CHAPTER XII.

Re-enter an Old Friend.

THOUGH the Harrisons' country place on the north shore of Long Island had been opened, and the family was supposed to be settled there for the summer, it was to the town house that Mrs. Harrison bore Sue and Jennie. This also was open with half a corps of servants, for the [illegible] convenience of Mr. Harrison and Kenneth. Not until [illegible] days would the two men begin their Summer schedule of [illegible] to and fro in the Harrison yacht, the Myra, which [illegible] the waters of the sound at thirty-five miles an hour or better.

Following Jennie's very short valedictory there came the [illegible] commencement address, which was delivered by a justice of the supreme court, who, as a speaker, could out-wind any man in public life—and after that there was Miss Gresham's farewell tea to the graduates—so that it was half-past six when the Harrison car reached the house in the East Seventies. Jennie had just begun to settle herself in the room which she had occupied on her first visit to the Harrisons when Sue burst in upon her rather breathlessly.

"Jennie—what do you think! Father has a bad headache, nothing serious, and mother wants to stay home with him. There was a note for me from Kenneth; he invites us out to dinner—then to the theatre—then to supper. And mother says we may go. Would you like to?"

"Of course," said Jennie.

"And there's to be some one else—Billy Grayson."

"Billy Grayson?" Jennie pretended to be struggling with a baffled memory. "Billy Grayson? Somewhere have I heard that name before?"

"Don't waste time trying to tease me," Sue replied, flushing. "Hurry up, dear. We're to be ready at seven."

Jennie set about dressing with not a little excitement, thinking of Sue's handsome brother with his amused smile, whom she had hardly seen since that Easter visit of years ago when he had rescued her from the night watchman and the impending Casey, and when he had tried, not very impetuously, to col- [illegible] in the [illegible] of a kiss. [illegible] going to ask that question [illegible]

"I? Oh, I'm just one of the boarders Mrs. Harrison keeps. Now, you—perhaps you're the person they call Jennie Miller?"

"Perhaps."

"And perhaps you heard everything I was just saying about you—or her?"

"Perhaps—just possibly." She felt excitement, but no embarrassment. Nothing else so definitely marked what time and change had done. At sixteen she had first stood in Kenneth Harrison's presence awkward and abashed and feeling that he was of an older generation; at twenty she felt herself of his own age and was able to exchange banter with him on even terms. "But if I did overhear, it's not wholly my fault that sound travels and I have ears."

Suddenly he smiled engagingly and held out his hand. "I'm glad to see you again, Miss Miller!"

She came down the three steps and took his hand. "Thank you."

"May I tell you something?" he asked.

"Please do."

His smile became very direct and personal, but its apparent frankness negatived any offense that might otherwise have been in it. "You may not carry guns, Miss Miller—but you are a very unsafe young woman to be allowed abroad."

"Why?"

"You remember what I said years ago—after midnight, in the hallway above: that you might grow up to be a very dangerous person to my poor sex?"

"I don't seem to remember a thing about it!"

"Well, you've done it! Perhaps not intentionally or maliciously—but you certainly have done it!"

There was real admiration in voice and eye. Jennie thrilled with pleasure, but before she could reply Sue came out of the drawing-room, and Jennie found herself taking the hand of a nice-looking, blue-eyed young man and saying, "I'm very glad to meet you, Mr. Grayson."

Twenty minutes later the four of them were sitting down to dinner in Delmonico's. It soon became essentially, not a party of four, but a party of two twos. Sue had mentioned Billy Grayson to her now and then, in an attempted offhand manner, but if Jennie had not [illegible] what young Grayson meant in Sue's life, she learned it well enough now from the shy but obvious way in which the interest of each was centred in the other. Kenneth, even had he wished to do otherwise, could hardly have done else than give his attention chiefly to Jennie—and Jennie sensed that he did not wish otherwise; she sensed that the admiration which had come into his eyes the moment he had stepped out and seen her on the stairway, was increasing with every minute.

Jennie had no consciousness of caring particularly for Kenneth—he was for her, at that hour, just a handsome, fascinating young man. But his admiration was more exhilarating than the champagne; it gave her strength, it lifted her. And she looked better than before, and spoke better, and gave a freer play to all her faculties—and his open admiration kept on growing as she unfolded.

During the dinner she dimly remembered something Sue had told her about Gloria Raymond: how Gloria, once half-engaged to her brother, and actually engaged to another young man when she had graduated, had broken the real engagement after the cards were out, and was once more in the midst of an active and determined affair with Kenneth. But what might be between Kenneth Harrison and Gloria Raymond at this moment concerned Jennie in no slightest degree; the present was sufficient unto itself.

It was a wonderful dinner—a thrilling dinner. But at length it was over, and just as the curtain rose on the second act they took their seats in a theatre. The setting of the act was a ballroom in some millionaire's house. There was not much of a story, but there were lots of girls—"With Lots of Girls," that phrase was run beneath the play's title on the posters—in very large hats and in dresses which certainly had never been selected by Miss Van der Brunt. And after the girls had sung something with an ogling air of naughty innocence and had danced and manoeuvred, they marched off as a tramp comedian came on with his trick dog; and after the tramp comedian had finished the stunts which he had been repeating without variation for five years in vaudeville houses, a young woman entered in an evening gown of a cut which knew no fear (exit tramp and dog), followed by the previous young women now gowned as guests at the ball, and followed also by chorus men also in suppositious fashionable evening wear. The young woman, evidently the hostess of the stage party, advanced to the footlights, conscious of her every charm, with the air of being a personage that every one knew and wished to see, and sang a supposedly humorous topical ditty, dealing with the varieties of stumbling men a woman has to dance with, each verse mournfully ending with "And that's the sort of partner a hostess always gets." After she had responded to her last encore, there was dancing of the ballroom type by the guests—then there was an instant's pause in the action of the play while the guests retired up-stage—then through a gilded doorway sauntered a slender young man.

Instantly the whole theatre was applauding. The young man had to bow his appreciation, which he did with extraordinary grace, holding his silk hat with none of the half-afraidness with which men in real life manage that insignia of formality. He had to bow again—and now something distantly familiar about him drifted into Jennie's mind. She tried to place him—she could not—but the sense of familiarity persisted. He had a few words of comedy dialogue with the hostess, then laying his hat on a chair, he slipped an arm about the lady and the two went circling around in a ballroom dance.

And then, suddenly, Jennie knew him well. It all came upon her with a rush—those long-gone years—the Pekin—their petty rogueries. She almost gasped aloud.

"Who—who is he?" she at length asked Kenneth.

"What—you don't know who he is!" Kenneth exclaimed.

"Miss Gresham didn't let us come in to see plays very often," she explained, "and I've read almost nothing about the theatre the last four years."

"That," said Kenneth with emphasis, "is Jackson Holt."

"Is he—i—is he very good?"

"Good? He's the best there is in his line. He's a marvel; He's the real star of this show!" And then Kenneth added: "He's not only good on the stage, he's a gentleman off of it—I happen to know him a little. And the women who like to dance are crazy about him; he goes just about where he likes in society."

Jennie drew a slow, deep breath. So that was Slim Jackson! And so Slim had made good his boast about getting to the top! She watched him closely. There was nothing vulgar or suggestive or exaggerated in his work; it was graceful, finished, refined; it was ballroom dancing at its truly highest. His partner was good—but he belonged to a different order of dancers. The gods had put gifts in his feet. Indeed he was a marvel!

But how had he done it all? How had he got up here? Jennie sat wondering through the succeeding scenes of the play. . . . Once she had a start of a different sort. Glancing back, she saw a man leaning against the orchestra rail who seemed to be staring fixedly at her. She thought it was Harry Edwards, and she turned quickly again to the stage. But a few minutes later curiosity impelled her to look backwards; a more composed glance showed her that the man standing where she thought Harry stood was not Harry Edwards. She had been deceived by a mere fancied resemblance, had been played upon by this resurgence of old memories. . . . For the rest of the performance she continued to wonder about the rise of Slim Jackson.

She was relieved to get away from the theatre. With Slim out of her sight, and in the company of the little party which was now in gay mood, she tried to throw off the disturbing memories, the sense of nearness to her old life. By the time they were all in Kenneth's car, the feeling of security, of confidence, which she had slowly won during the past four years had returned; it reassured her, convincingly, that time had wiped out all remembrance of her, that she had gone too far, had risen too high, ever to be connected with the Jennie Malone who once had been.

Spring had ended with Summer-like days that year, and the roof-gardens were already open. Ten minutes after they had left the theatre the four stepped out upon the Astor roof. A captain instantly sighted Kenneth and was beside them. "Your table is this way, please, Mr. Harrison," he said, and led them across the roof to a table beneath an arbor of vari-colored lights. The quickness with which her escort was recognized, the deference paid him, elated Jennie; and she was further gratified when she saw that the table was already set, and when waiters began immediately to serve. She knew then that the table had been reserved and the supper ordered in advance. This, indeed, was attention!

Then she noticed something else which in the first excitement of this new experience she had overlooked. "Why, there are five covers!" she exclaimed. "There are only four of us—who's the fifth place for?"

"A friend of mine promised to drop around if he could—none of you know him," Kenneth answered.

He spoke casually. It was an element of his character which Jennie was yet to discover, that he liked to do carefully planned and perhaps even big things in an offhand manner—as though they were commonplaces to him. Perhaps he so acted because it was a subtle way of increasing his own importance—because it fed his egotism, which his sister had declaimed against, but of which Jennie had seen no trace. Perhaps it was merely because of his quizzical bent; perhaps merely because he had a penchant for little surprises.

Jennie had danced one number with Kenneth, dancing it very formally, and was seated again at the table with Sue and young Grayson, when coming out upon the roof she saw that which caused her whole being to go suddenly still. It was Slim Jackson. Captains and head waiters hurried toward this great celebrity of their world, eagerly, obsequiously; but before they reached him his scanning eyes had caught sight of Kenneth, on his feet with a signalling hand, and he was crosing toward the table.

It went through Jennie like a shot: so—that fifth cover was for Slim Jackson!

Frantic, yet controlling herself, she turned her back as if to pluck a sprig from a tubbed privet-tree; but all the while her sidewise glance was watching Slim draw nearer. "Sorry, if I'm late, Kenneth," she heard him say—"but you know you can't just wish your make-up off." And then she watched his introduction to the others. What would he do when he saw her? her frenzy kept asking. He would start with amazement at this unexpected meeting with her, and his involuntary start would lead to her certain exposure—

"Miss Miller," called Kenneth.

It was inevitable. Jennie summoned her strength and turned, holding the sprig of privet she had plucked.

"Miss Miller," said Kenneth, "I want you to meet Mr. Jackson Holt whom you saw to-night."

Her face was pale; the gaze she raised to him was strained in its fixity. But he did not start, as she had thought he would. The look he gave her was conventionally pleasant, it was the look he might have given any woman he was meeting for the first time.

"I am, indeed, pleased to meet you, Miss Miller," he acknowledged in an even voice, bowing with his extraordinary grace.

Jennie came as near to fainting as she had ever done. He did not know her! Her courage, her self-confidence, flowed back. Well, was there really anything so strange in that, after all? Four years had passed—she was in company in which he would never dream to find her. Certainly there had been change enough since the night of that far-away last meeting—the time she had danced with him at the Pekin. Well, she was going to play it through just as though they had never met before.

After a few bites, Slim asked Sue to dance, and Jennie danced with young Grayson. And then, after a few more fragments of the supper, Slim invited her to take the floor with him. She dared not refuse; she had said that her part had to be to act just as though Slim were any other friend of Kenneth's; so she arose and gave herself into his arms. She danced the steps correctly, but formally, just as she had done with Kenneth; she was on her guard not to betray any trace of her old self. She believed she was acting the stranger well. And as for Slim, he was the stranger; he could not have been so formal, and yet so gracefully at ease in his formality, had he been other. She was getting on well—very well, indeed.

They had circled the roof once and were a second time at a point farthest from their table, when he stopped. "Miss Miller you must let me show you the lights of New York from this roof," he said; and her hand through his arm he led her from among the dancers to a quiet place against the parapet.

"Some people tell us all the scenery is in Europe or out West," he said,—"but New York, at night, isn't it worth looking at?"

"Yes—it is wonderful."

They stood silent a moment gazing over the stone coping of the wall at the white day that streamed up from the deep streets. Then, suddenly, Jennie felt a hand laid upon her hand within his arm, and felt his breath close against her cheek.

"You're doing it great, Jennie!" he whispered. "But in the name of God, how have you done it?"

What the Story Is About

How Jenny, the daughter of Black Jerry Malone, the keeper of a low dance hall in New York, was rescued in the very nick of time from her environment and introduced to exclusive New York society through the influence of a former crook is the thrilling basis of this new story, by the author of "Mary Regan." The novel tells mainly of her adventures in the second of the two worlds through which her amazing career takes her, where reminders of her past appear, and the result is many thrilling and dramatic episodes.

"I shall not ask you to come in," she said. "It is late."

She inserted her key in the lock as she spoke. She had claimed a latchkey as her right. Peter had one—why not she?

"I shall hope to see you soon," her escort said. "Good night!"

She was glad to be alone at last. Her head still reeled, and she had a queer, tremulous feeling.

"I suppose it is from excitement and the stuff I drank," she reflected as she [illegible]

She saw a light through the transom of her mother's room. As she went on up to the third floor she noticed that the door of her brother's quarters was open, but there was no light there. Peter was evidently out still.

Softly she closed her own door and switched on the light. Her maid had opened her bed and laid her nightgown, wrapper and slippers in readiness for her.

"Oh, how tired I am!" Mary sighed, glancing longingly at these articles. "But before I sleep I must decide what to do about that money matter. I must pay Mortimer Lawrence tomorrow morning. And I have just fifteen dollars. If I ask dad for it he will put inconvenient questions to me."

There was no help for it. Peter must lend her the money.

It was pretty hard, she mused as she undressed and donned her gown, wrapper and slippers, that she should have no regular bank account. Other girls had bank accounts.

She Hates to Explain.

To be sure, her father handed her a liberal sum of money every Monday "to buy candy with," as he jocosely expressed it. But that was just what it was for—to buy candy and take a friend out to tea or something of that kind. It did not provide for such a contingency as the loss of a hundred dollars in one evening.

Her father was always willing to give her more money if she explained why she required it. Only yesterday she had remarked that she wanted to take a friend to luncheon at the Astor, and he had asked her what she thought it would cost, and had given her the [illegible]

She made an angry gesture. "Mortimer Lawrence has not right to dictate with whom I go anywhere!" she declared. "It is none of his business!"

"And yet you allow him to pay your debts!" her brother jeered. "He's a fool to help you out of a scrape when you throw him aside for a puppy like Sheldon."

"It does not concern you from [illegible] action!" Mary burst forth. "I am quite able to look out for myself!"

"Then pay your own debts!" Peter said roughly, going to the door.

But here he paused and came back to her. "Don't let's fight!" he begged. "I was cross. I'm sorry. But you ought to be careful."

"You go where you like," Mary [illegible]. "Only tonight I heard that [illegible] a date with a girl of whom you never told your family. Perhaps she might seem no better to me than Lewis Sheldon does to you."

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER XLVI.

AFTER long weeks of Ann's careful nursing, the mysterious woman seemed to show signs of improvement. She told Ann one day, as Ann had just finished reading her a story of the woods, fields and sunshine, "Yes, dear, it is fine—for you, but as for me, I guess I appreciated it too late. You, little girl, have your life before you to make of it as you will. You have good looks, a keen brain and, most of all, in Frank, a fine lad who really loves you. Profit by my mistakes, and don't throw them away, as I have done."

Here she was interrupted by spasms of coughing—the cough that worried the doctor more than the first trouble had done. After it was over and Ann had rearranged her pillows and made her as comfortable as she could, she held Ann's hand as tight as her feeble strength would allow and said to her: "You, Ann, have been the only true friend I have had in many years. I had heaps of them at one time—or thought I had—so now, little girl, don't be afraid when I tell you I know I am about to go on the great adventure into the Valley of the Shadow—going eagerly and unafraid."

Ann knelt down beside her and, patting her cheek, told her, "No, no, there are many happy days for you ahead; don't give up." At this the mysterious woman only smiled sadly and, pointing to an old chest, said to Ann: "In the bottom of that chest there is a picture of me as I used to look—I want you to have it and always think of me as I was then."

As Ann went to get it, this woman of many sorrows was suddenly taken with another one of the coughing spells, and, as Ann hurried to her side, she smiled a wan smile and closed her eyes. Then Ann realized that the poor troubled soul had gone.

Keeping Him Guessing; Does It Work?

By Beatrice Fairfax

Who occupies a unique position in the writing world as an authority on the problems of girls

ROSAMUND came to me in tears. She had the attitude of a sovereign deposed from her throne. And in a voice whose finality went perfectly with the picture she told me that she had come to the end of things.

"My youth is over," she declared. "My happiness is gone. And the worst of it is I know it's mostly my own fault."

"Would you begin at the beginning?" I suggested.

"The beginning's the end," she cried, without an eye to the effect of her words. "It's like this: I'm almost engaged to Charlie. And I love him more than I ever dreamed I could care for any one. But I've always had a theory that you ought to keep a man guessing if you want to hold his love.

"So when he didn't ask me to the first of the country club dances, and it got to be ten days from the date, I accepted Ned Lane's invitation. I did it partly because I'd have felt cheap if I hadn't been there, and partly because I thought it would teach Charlie a good lesson if he should happen to ask me at the last minute and I had an invitation."

Rosamund interrupted herself with a little sob. So I carried her on past the bad place.

"And now Charlie's asked you, and you want me to tell you how to manage, so as to make him and you happy and still to play fair with Ned, don't you?" I suggested.

"The dance was last night," moaned Rosamund. "And I went with Ned."

"Dear child, was that a high crime and misdemeanor?" I asked.

"It cost me Charlie's regard," said Rosamund. But she said it with her head high and her eyes flashing.

"Need it do that?" I asked.

"I don't know that it had to do that. But I brought it on myself, I guess. You see, Charlie called me up yesterday morning. Yesterday was the day of the dance. And he said that he'd like to know what I was wearing so he could send the right flowers. And I asked why he should be interested in sending me flowers. I acknowledge I wasn't any too sweet about it. But it was so high and mighty of him to just take me for granted. I was glad that I'd accepted another invitation—if only to show him that I'm not sitting around waiting."

"Oh—this is where the keeping him guessing idea comes in," I interrupted.

"Yes. Don't you see, I was perfectly overjoyed that I hadn't put myself in the position where he could take me for granted? So I didn't commit myself much about the whole thing until I'd—strung him along for a while and was sure I'd made him about as miserable as he'd made me—letting me wonder why he didn't ask me.

"And he explained that he thought things between us were—so that I'd know I was the only girl. And he just showed he took me for granted. So I was sort of—airy. And he seemed hurt. But I only went on putting him off. Finally he said good-by in the coldest voice after he'd asked if I wouldn't at least telephone my escort and ask if he could come with us and I'd refused.

"And he didn't come to the dance—not at first. And I thought he wasn't coming. So I didn't save him a dance. And he thought of course I'd get some one else to let him have one. And I wouldn't."

"Child alive, you did 'keep him guessing,'" I quoted.

"Oh, that isn't all. I thought he was so sure of himself and of me that I flirted hard with Ned right under his eyes. And at last Charlie went off in a huff after he'd told me that if I ever wanted to explain—or anything I know his telephone number."

"And what did he do when you called him?" I asked, trying not to look a bit amused as I pictured a youth very strongly entrenched behind his youthful dignity and hurt.

"I didn't telephone. I wouldn't. What do you imagine Charlie would think of me if I did that? I have to have some pride, don't I? I can't let him take me for granted. I must keep him guessing"——

"Rosamund!" I cried without making the least effort to keep the irritation out of my voice. "Is love such a frail and uncertain thing that it feeds only on coquetry? Must it be bolstered up with lies and shame? Don't you feel one big, honest, straightforward emotion for Charlie? Is it all a game?

"Can't you show your fineness and sweetness and loyalty and believe that he has enough of all three to admire you the more for being a real woman instead of a tinsel dressed doll? Don't you think a man wants a partner who believes in him and can take a few things for granted?"

"Oh—those questions!" protested Rosamund.

"I'll ask twenty more," I replied grimly, "if you don't run straight to my telephone to escape the next fusillade of interrogation points. . . . Tell me—does your mother hold your father's love by pretending that she doesn't care for him?"

But Rosamund was explaining to Central that it was Rector—not Barclay she was calling.

Protecting the Cooling System

Now that our motors have pretty generally given up the alcohol habit, we supply them with a prepaid anti-freeze mixture which does the work as well, costs us little if any more and spares us the ignominy of purchasing denatured firewater. Some users resort to calcium chloride as a means of keeping the cold from doing damage to the radiator cells, but the chloride is in itself detrimental and is never employed by motor savants. If the motorist has a personal preference to alcohol (over anti-freeze compounds) the following formula may be used with safety in the radiator:

Denatured alcohol	Water	Freezing Point Alcohol—water	Wood Alcohol mixture	Water
28	72	10F	17	83
40	60	0F	24	76
51	49	—10F	31	69

How to Get a Fine Choir

By Dr. Wm. A. McKeever,

Professor in the University of Kansas and Educator of Nation-Wide Reputation

STREATOR, Ill., has solved one problem of the church in a manner that should appeal to the entire religious world, and that is by giving high school credit to pupils who do the regular choir work under a competent leader.

Now, here is a new charming link between the church and the school which looks big with possibilities. The credit given at Streator amounts to one full unit for the year. The choir leader reports each pupil as to attendance and effort practically as is done by any regular teacher, and the grade is entered among the group of high school electives. The course in choir music requires two Sunday attendances and the week-day practice hour. This training period is moved from one hour to another by appointment and often comes at the midday school intermission.

Let us examine briefly the qualities of this course.

First, there is made an actual point of advancement toward high school graduation. The pupil is thus led to regard choir singing as a part of a general education and not merely something to be done for conscience's sake.

Second, the music training obtained from the choir practice is considerable.

Third, there is made possible here a profound impression upon the permanent life and character of the young choir member. To sit under the influence of 100 sermons per year; to contribute a vital part as often to the program of the service; to experience repeatedly the inspiration which naturally comes from all good religious music—these splendid subtle forces are certain to work powerfully in the direction of a happy Christian career for any youth, who may be so fortunate as to elect the peculiar course here outlined.

Finally, there is here emphasized the idea that religion is a thing to be accredited and recognized as an essential part of any worthy life. If we can but make it easy and in line with the natural course of events for young people to attend church; if we can place them [illegible] to hear, not merely an occasional sermon but a series of them without seeming force or restriction; if we can make it possible for them to become [illegible] rather than abruptly [illegible] with the spirit of service of God [illegible]—as this remarkable church choir course is accomplishing—then, I can see for the future a glorious new era for religion as a factor in human progress. May the Streator idea be quickly extended to a thousand other cities of America.

Fruits for Breakfast

By Loretto C. Lynch

An Acknowledged Authority on All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

WHEN the fruit begins to be scarce on the city fruit stands, often there is a general letting up on the fruit course at breakfast. For with oranges at ten and fifteen cents apiece, says the housewife, "I simply can't afford it."

But there are plenty of other fruits within the range of even the poor woman's purse, and the thrifty housewife will look about and find the cheaper kinds. The dried fruits, dried as they are today, are one of the real privileges of the modern home. Not only should you be acquainted with dried peaches, pears, and prunes, but you should also know the dried plums, apricots, seeded cherries and apples.

Dried fruit is more bother to prepare than fresh fruit, but it is cheaper, especially when fresh fruit is out of season or has to be brought from a great distance. But dried fruit is dirty. Even if it looks clean and comes in a clean, fancy package, nevertheless it will stand a thorough cleaning.

A new tooth brush will be found convenient. Keep it especially for this purpose. Scrub each piece of the fruit with this brush and lukewarm water. Several waters may be needed. The last rinsing water should be clear. Then put the fruit to soak in clean water. Cover the vessel containing the soaking fruit to keep out dust. Put the fruit to stew in the water in which it has soaked.

Many housewives do not take the precaution to give the fruit this thorough cleaning. Some cannot believe it necessary. But viewed under the microscope, the fruit is very dirty and you surely would not care to eat it yourself or give it to the family if you could see it under the microscope. It is a mistake to throw off the water in which the fruit has soaked, as this contains some of the mineral salts and much of the fruit juice and flavor.

Stew the fruit very slowly, to develop the natural flavor, adding the sugar toward the end of the cooking. Less sugar is required if it is added at the end. Cooking causes sugar to lose some of its sweetness.

Not enough housekeepers use stewed raisins. These should be cleaned with the brush and soaked and stewed. They, of course, require no sugar, but are improved by the addition of a little lemon juice or rind during [illegible]ng.

Help Yourself to Part of That $5,000 "Loveliest Girl" Prize for Xmas

ALICE WALSH, Portland, Me.

MARIE PAGANO, Boston

EDITH VIOLET BURNS, Boston

ETHEL BALDI, Laconia, N. H.

HELEN WALSH, Brookline

THE BOSTON AMERICAN offers $5,000 in gold for photographs of lovely girls. To the girl declared by the judges to be the loveliest girl in New England, the American will pay $3,000 in gold. To the next girl in merit, $1,000 in gold. There will be two third prizes of $500 each. In awarding the prizes the judges will have in mind Arthur Brisbane's definition of beauty. Mr. Brisbane says beauty is "intelligence in a fine setting." The judges will study the photographs, first for intelligence, second for health, and third for physical beauty. There are no strings attached. Just send in the photograph of your wife, sweetheart, sister or friend. All photographs will be given careful treatment and will be returned when the contest is over. Address all mail to "Loveliest Girl Editor," Boston American, P. O. Box 239, Boston 9, Mass.

LET'S GO HITCHIN'—Jean Hope is posted on a rock with her water sled hoping that some passing sportsmen will treat her to a joy ride behind his motor boat. —(c) Keystone.

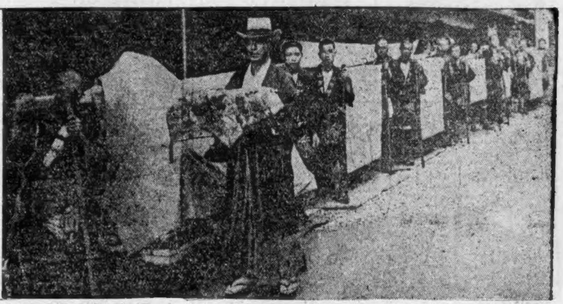
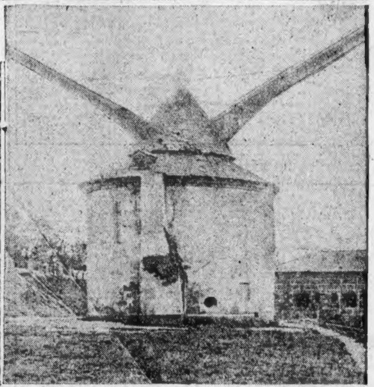
LEADS SIMMONS ORCHESTRA—Miss Edna Boyd of Portsmouth is leader of the orchestra at Simmons, which will play at the production of Pinero's "Amazons" to be given this month. White Photo.

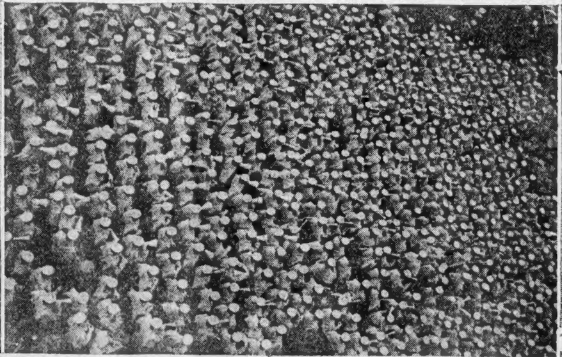


SOFT FOR THE GROOM—In Japan the bride sends her furniture and effects to the bridegroom's house the day before the wedding. The longer the procession the luckier the bridegroom. Central.



THEY BUILT WELL—More than 600 years ago Sailor Gothel and his wife Marhareta erected a crane in Trier on the River Mosel. The crane is still in use. —(c) Int.

WORK WON FOR HIM—Alfred Losinsky, 19, is probably the most remarkable freshman who ever entered an American college. He is blind, but ranks among the top students at Fordham. —(c) Int.

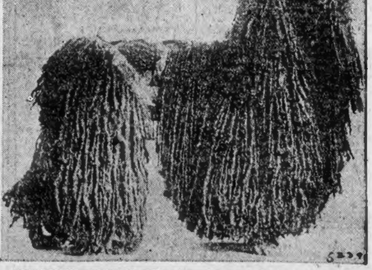


WHATAYAGOTHERE?—Looks like a punch board or a "count the dots" puzzle. It's a picture of the West Pointers' section of the crowd which jammed the Polo Grounds for the annual Army-Navy football game. —(c) Underwood & Underwood.

FOR DUMB HEROES—Jimmie is telling his canine friends about the statue in the background, which is a memorial to dogs who died "in the service" for men. Many humans could learn a lesson from the loyalty of dogs. Loyalty is one of the finest things in life, whether it be loyalty to one's ideals, country, friends, employer or even to one's self. The latter is probably the scarcest of all. —(c) Underwood & Underwood.

RABBITS FUR FUR—With fur prices fitting only the pocketbooks of the rich, here's a grand idea. Buy a pair of rabbits. They will begin to breed when six months old. Rabbits breed six or eight times a year and produce from five to eight at a birth. In five years you can make Ponzi look like a piker. You can skin the grown rabbits and sell the meat for enough to buy food for the young rabbits. Figure it out for yourself. It's a great game if you don't welsh. If you welsh you become a Welsh rabbit. —(c) Western.

CHINESE LOLLYPOPS—Little Sing Hi likes his sweets just like other kiddies the world over. When he passes one of the stands where they sell sugar cane at one iron washer a stick, it is his mother's cue to purchase his silence. Some day Sing may be serving you with chow-mein. Unless the antis put a ban on that, too. —(c) U. & U.



SUFFERING CATFISH!—Whazzis? Latest fashion in dogs. Corded poodle. Sort of a Burbank between a water spaniel and an unraveled rag carpet. Can be worn in lieu of a muff in cold weather. Tied to the end of a stick it would also make a bully floor mop. This one is Captain Swift, a prize winner at the Kennel Club's show at Crystal Palace, London. Striking beggar, eh, what, old top? —(c) Underwood & Underwood.

HOWARD BEQUESTS GO TO VERMONT INSTITUTIONS

Bellows Falls, Vt., Dec. 1.—Five separate bequests to institutions and societies in this State were revealed in the will of Charles E. Howard, who died in this city last year. The will, filed in New York city, leaves $10,000 to Rockingham Hospital; $5,000 to New England Kurn Hattin Homes; $2,000 to First Congregational Church, and $2,000 to Masonic Association, all of Bellows Falls; and $1,000 to Vermont Academy, Saxon's River.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look years younger! Use Grandmother's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

SNAPPY REVUE AT MAJESTIC

"Vogues and Vanities" Produces Almost Continuous Succession of Laughs

"Vogues and Vanities" is a revue snap. If one thinks he has tired of that form of theatrical entertainment he has only to see this show which began an indefinite engagement at the Majestic Theatre on Monday night to again become an enthusiast.

There are more pretty girls, more elaborate costumes and more clever stage settings in "Vogues and Vanities" than in the usual run of musical productions. But the thing that sends the audiences away pleased is the almost continuous succession of laughs. The funmakers work hard and with quite evident success.

TWO CLEVER SKETCHES.

"The Eternal Triangle" in two scenes, "As the American Imagines It Happens in England" and "As the Englishman Imagines It Happens in America," is an uproariously funny farce with the freshness of originality. "The Children's Hour in a Modern Nursery" is a satire on the sophistication of present day youngsters. "Marriage a la Mode" and "Keystone Beach" are two other clever sketches.

Ned Wayburn, who staged the revue for E. Ray Goetz accomplished a novel and beautiful effect in the last scene of the first act with "An Iridescent Symphony." A silver curtain upon which all the colors of the rainbow are projected by means of sidelights, forms the background for a pose of several minutes by eight unusually attractive show girls.

SPECIAL DANCE.

Another striking novelty is the Hat Bazaar in which the young women of the ensemble, group themselves to form a very realistic resemblance of the trimmings of an old-fashioned bonnet.

There are so many stars in "Vogues and Vanities" and their work is so diversified that it would be impossible to do justice to any of them in limited space. The principal roles fall to Johnny Dooley, Anna Wheaton, William Kent, Helen Broderick, Clifton Webb and Lester Crawford. Edith Hallor and Robert Emmett Keane also are in the cast, but do not appear as often as the others. Special dances are contributed by Evelyn Law and Maurice Diamond.

There is little of the music to remember except, perhaps, "Beautiful Feathers," which is sung early in the first act, but there are so many other features to make up for this deficiency that it is scarcely noticed.

GOVERNMENT REVENUES REACH $2,014,000,000

Washington, Dec. 1.—Government revenues, mainly from income and profit taxes, have reached $2,014,000,000 for the first five months period of the fiscal year. This is $112,000,000 less than totals for the same period in 1919, Secretary Houston was informed today. More than $1,000,000,000 is expected to be added by collections this month, on the last instalment of the income taxes, based upon returns for earnings last year. These revenues are payable December 15.

BROOKLINE GIRL TO WED TECH JUNIOR

The engagement of Kathryn R. Bush of No. 100 Abbotsford road, Brookline, and Frank D. Gage, a junior at 'Tech, was announced at an engagement party at Miss Bush's home today. Miss Bush is the daughter of Byron S. Bush, and a former student at Brookline High School. Mr. Gage comes from Minneapolis, Kan. He is director of the musical club of Tech. During the war he served in the navy.

FURNITURE

$1 ONLY For This Beautiful

$15 Dinner Se

They have just arrived in time. As it is the first time since April that we have been able to offer this extraordinary inducement. But this big Uptown store, always watching to give you the best of everything, is now able to make your Christmas more enjoyable by offering you this extraordinary Dinner Set at this low price, and it is yours if you buy $100 worth or more this month.

Showing the Way

In a cozy home at an extremely small outlay has always been a specialty with this big Uptown store, because we are Uptown with a very low rental. The saving that is yours this trade Uptown is even more evident than ever, in these days of high prices, and this Bedroom Suite shown here plainly reflects this fact, and as showing you how near our prices are to pre-war levels. Then, too, remember it is always a pleasure to show you, whether you buy or not.

Not Only This

$140 Kind $98

Value, but hundreds of others throughout our immense showing of good things for the home must convince you that our values, as well as prices, are very close to the old ones of other days. This suite we are showing you today is a very attractive one, with good sized mirrors, and will give you unusually good wear; the finish is as good as it can be; the bed is the new sanitary type, with dustless rails; it is a suite you will say is very pretty and well designed. As for price, it is as low as it ever was. However, the going price is $140, while our Uptown price is $98. But then see us. You will more readily see just what worth-while savings we can make you as well as how much easier we can furnish your home.

Look First All You Can

We Cordially Invite

You to visit our Grafonola Shop, where you will find an attractive assortment of musical instruments, as well as a complete library of records, with the latest hits always to be had, and if you have in mind a Grafonola for Christmas, would it not be a good idea to make your selection now? Pay a comfortable amount down, then a comfortable amount a week. In this way you would have paid enough to have it delivered at Christmas, and yet would hardly feel the paying, and we will store your selection free until wanted.

Special Payments

may be arranged if you so desire. You may pay a comfortable amount at time of purchase and a comfortable amount each week until it is paid for. Six months' credit without interest.

An Authoritative Reply to an Anti-Jewish Campaign

It Will Be Published Undoubtedly in His Weekly Newspaper by Henry Ford, Who Would Not Be Consciously Guilty of Injustice.

Henry Ford has published a series of articles attacking the Jews and representing them as animated by sinister purposes, based on a definite plan, so-called "protocols of the elders of Zion."

Those that have imposed on Ford's credulity are scandalous, shameless inventors of malignant bigotry and prejudice. A comprehensive, complete reply has been prepared by a representative committee, including Louis Marshall, Julius Rosenwald, Cyrus Adler, Albert D. Lasker, Irving Lehman, Oscar H. Straus and others.

All editorial space available in this newspaper is devoted to this complete reply, slightly abbreviated for space reasons. It should be read carefully by those who realise the dangerous results that follow the stirring up of race, religious and class hatred. The statement follows:

TO OUR FELLOW CITIZENS:

During the war, by secret agencies, a document variously called "the protocols of the elders of Zion," "the protocols of the meetings of the Zionist men of wisdom," and "the protocols of the wise men of Zion," was clandestinely circulated in typewritten form among public officials and carefully selected civilians, for the purpose of giving rise to the belief that the Jews, in conjunction with Free Masons had been for centuries engaged in a conspiracy to produce revolution and anarchy, by means of which they hoped to attain the control of the world by the establishment of some sort of despotic rule. Some months ago this document was published in England. More recently it has appeared in print in the United States, and thousands of copies have been circulated with an air of mystery among legislators, journalists, clergymen and teachers, members of clubs, and indiscriminately to the general public.

These articles, whose authorship is not disclosed, have now appeared in book form under the title, "The Cause of World Unrest." During the past six months there have been sent forth weekly in Henry Ford's organ, The Dearborn Independent, attacks of extraordinary virulence upon the Jews. These assaults upon the honor of the Jewish people are all founded on the protocols and on the discredited literature of Russian and German anti-Semitism, inspired by the minions of autocracy. Parrot-like they repeat the abominable charges that can only appeal to the credulity of a stunted intelligence—chargees long since conceded to be unfounded by all fair-minded men. Ford is employing his great wealth in scattering broadcast his fulminations, regardless of consequences.

When the Jews of the United States first learned of these malevolent prints, they deemed it beneath their dignity to take notice of them, because they regarded them as a mere recrudescence of mediaeval bigotry and stupidity showing upon their face their utter worthlessness. These publications have, however, been put in circulation to such an extent that it is believed that the time has come, humiliating though it be to them, for the Jews to make answer to these libels and to the unworthy insinuations and inuendos that have been whispered against them.

Speaking as representatives of the Jewish people, familiar with the history of Judaism in its various phases and with the movements, past and present, in Jewish life, we say with all solemnity:

(1) The protocols are a base forgery. There has never been an organization of Jews known as the Elders of Zion, or the Zionist men of wisdom, or the wise men of Zion, or bearing any other similar name. There has never existed a secret or other Jewish body organized for any purpose such as that implied in the protocols. The Jewish people have never dreamed of a Jewish dictatorship, of a destruction of religion, of an interference with industrial prosperity or of an overthrow of civilization. The Jews have never conspired with the Free Masons or with any other body for any purpose.

Until the outbreak of the World War the Jews of Eastern Europe, constituting a majority of all the Jews of the world, were not even permitted to exercise the rights of citizenship in lands where they and their ancestors had dwelt for generations. The great mass of the Jews were hampered in every way in their efforts to earn a livelihood. Far from desiring to govern the world, they were content with the opportunity to live. Numerically they constitute less than 1 per cent. of the population of the earth; and more than one-half of them are on the verge of starvation. The sugg[illegible]on that, in their feebleness they have been planning in Serbian secret conclave to seize absolute power and to dominate the 99 per cent. of non-Jews upon the globe is a ridiculous invention than which even madness can conjure nothing more preposterous.

Where is the habitat of these so-called elders of Zion, by whatever name they may be called? Who are these hidden sages? Whence do they come? What is the nature of their organization? The distributors of the protocols are silent on that subject. Whence come these pretended protocols? There have been various versions. One, Serge Nilus, of whose identity little is known, a Russian mystic and an ardent supporter of Czarism, claims to have received them in Russia, in 1901, in manuscript form, from a Russian officeholder, who stated that the manuscript had been originally obtained by a lady, whose name is not given and who, he said, obtained them in a mysterious way. In what language they were written is not stated.

Where that manuscript now is does not appear. Nilus asserts that he submitted the protocols to one of the Russian Grand Dukes, who, after examination, returned them with the despairing message: "Too late." Apparently there was no room for them in the Russian archives, and they suggested no task for the Czar's ubiquitous police to perform. In 1905, Nilus published at Tsarskoje Selo a second edition of a mystical book entitled "The Great in the Little," the first edition having been published in 1901. Into this later edition he incorporated for the first time the protocols, which he claimed to have had in his possession for four years. In January, 1917, he published another book under the title "It is Near, at the Door," purporting to foretell "the coming of the Anti-Christ and the Kingdom of the Devil on Earth." In this book he announces that he had only then learned authoritatively from Jewish sources (what they were is not explained) that these protocols were nothing other than a strategic plan for the conquest of the world, of putting it under the yoke of Israel, "the struggler-against-God," a plan worked out by the leaders of the Jewish people during the many centuries of their dispersion, and finally presented to the Council of Elders by the Prince of Exile, Theodor Herzl, at the time of the first Zionist Congress summoned by him at Basle in August, 1897. He declared that the protocols were signed by the Zionist representatives of the thirty-third degree of initiation; that they were secretly removed from the complete file of protocols that pertained to the first Zionist Congress; that they were taken from the secret vaults at the main Zionist office, which, it is said, "at present is located in French territory."

Nilus and his associates belonged to the Russian bureaucracy. In 1905, through the Black Hundreds, that body sought in every way to crush the Jews and to prevent the liberalization of the government. The time was propitious for the perpetration of a political forgery by a government that habitually resorted to the employment of agents provocateurs, a government which only a few years later, against the protest of the enlightened clergy of the world, ineffectually sought to convict Mendel Beilis on the charge of ritual murder. It is significant that one of his prosecutors has been active in distributing manuscript copies of the protocols throughout the United States.

An analysis of the protocols shows that on their face they are a fabrication and that they must have emanated from the bitter opponents of democracy. They are replete with cynical references to the French revolution, and to the conceptions of liberty, equality and fraternity. They uphold privilge and autocracy.

They belittle education. They condemn religious liberty, they assert that political freedom is an idea and not a fact, and that the doctrine that a government is nothing but a steward of the people is a mere phrase. These are the very doctrines that one would expect from the protaganists of autocracy. Nothing can be more foreign to Jewish thought and aspiration than these brutal theories of reaction. That the Jews, whose very life has been a prayer for the blessings of liberty and equality, should hold them in contempt is unthinkable.

The document throughout is farcical in its absurdities. In the Russian original there is a passage, significantly omitted from the translation, to the effect that the English are the descendants of the Lost Tribes of Israel and the British government is violently attacked for its liberalism. It is needless, however, to elaborate, when one considers that the editor of the London Morning Post, in his introduction to "The Cause of World Unrest," himself doubts the genuineness of the protocols.

And yet a document, thus discredited by its sponsors, is made the basis of an indictment against an entire people.

(2) The contention that the genuineness of the protocols is established by the outbreak of Bolshevism in Russia twelve years after their publication, and that Bolshevism is a Jewish movement, is absurd in theory and absolutely untrue in fact. As well might it be said that a forged deed is genuine because twenty years after its date a relative of the person whose name is forged is falsely charged with being a disturber of the peace.

To say that the Jews are responsible for Bolshevism is a deliberate falsehood. The originators of Bolshevism were exclusively non-Jews. While it is true that there are Jews among the Bolshevists, notably Trotzky, they represent a small fraction of the Jews and of the followers of Bolshevism. Lenine, who belonged to the Russian aristocracy and has not a drop of Jewish blood in his veins, was the creator as he has been the motive of the Soviets. Tchicherin, who has conducted their foreign affairs, Bucharin, Krassin, and Kalinin, all non-Jews, are, with Lenine, the brains of the Communist party.

The Bolshevist cabinet, known as the people's commissars, consists of twenty members, of whom Trotzky and Sverdlov are the only Jews and they are Jews merely by birth. Of the central committee of the Communist party, including Trotzky, there are four Jews out of thirteen. The so-called extraordinary commission, whose function it is to suppress opposition to the Bolshevist regime from within, is directed by a triumvirate consisting of a Pole and two Letts, none of whom is of Jewish origin. Although Trotzky is the head of the war department, his general staff is composed exclusively of non-Jews.

On the other hand, the leaders of the Menshiviki, who are the sworn foes of Bolshevism, are to a large extent, Jews.

The orthodox Jews, whose numbers preponderate, remaining loyal to the faith of their fathers, regard the Bolshevists as the enemies of all religion, and, therefore, hold the doctrines of Bolshevism in abhorrence. With comparatively few exceptions the Jews are looked upon by the Bolshevists as belonging to the hated bourgeoisie and as favoring capitalism. The Zionists also, who constitute a numerous and important element of the Jews of Russia have been denounced by the Soviets as counter-revolutionary and many of them have been cast into prison and threatened with death. If the Jews are to be condemned because of a Trotzky, who has never in the slightest degree concerned himself with Judaism or the welfare of the Jews, then there is not a people that has ever lived that might not with equal right be condemned because in its membership there were men who are alleged to have advocated hateful doctrines. The Jew has traditionally stood for religion, law, order, the family, and the right of property. It is, therefore, the height of cruelty to charge him with responsibility for Bolshevism, when its doctrines, should they prevail, would inevitably lead to the destruction of Judaism.

What is the motive of those who have set in motion this new onslaught of anti-Semitism? It is the motive that again and again has actuated autocracy and its adroit supporters—that of seeking a scapegoat for their own sins, so that they may be enabled under the cover of a false issue to deceive the public. It is an attempt to drive into the solidarity of the citizenry of our country that has been its pride and its strength, the wedge of discord, by arousing suspicion and inciting overt acts not only against those of Jewish origin but also against Free Masons, in the hope of discrediting free government in the eyes of the European masses and thus facilitate the restoration of absolutism in government.

The protocols were manufactured in Russia under the bureaucracy, and the ammunition with which the campaign is conducted has beeen furnished out of the arsenal of Imperialistic Germany and by those who are seeking to restore the Hapsburgs, the Hohenzollerns, and the Romanoffs on their former thrones. Ancient hatred and unreasoning prejudice and a failure to understand and know what a Jew really is, are likewise responsible for the readiness with which these falsehoods have been accepted by those who are ever willing to believe evil of their fellow-men.

We have an abiding confidence in the spirit of justice and fairness that permeates the true American, and we are satisfied that our fellow-citizens will not permit the the campaign of slander and libel that has been launched against us to go unreproved. There is enough for all of us us to do in the great task of building up our common country and of developing the principles on which it is founded. Let not hatred and misunderstanding arise where peace and harmony, unity and brotherliness, are required to perpetuate all that America represents and to enable all men to know that within her wide boundaries there is no room for injustice and intolerance.

The statement, complete, truthful, convincing, from which extracts are printed above, is signed by the Zionist organization of America, the union of American Hebrew congregations, the union of orthodox Jewish congregations, the United Synagogue of America, the independent order of B'nai B'rith, the central conference of American rabbis and by others that include all most important Jewish and religious organizations in this country.

The statement that hatred of the Jews is instigated by reactionaries and would be autocrats is truth. Such men as Bismark, the Czar, and his ministers, are among those that have preached hatred of Jews and encouraged persecution of them. No good useful American, least of all Henry Ford, who has done so much for America and American industry, should be found in a movement of which the mainspring is religious hatred, prejudice and ignorance.

The French Republic has just buried with honor and reverence the heart of Gambetta, founder of the French Republic and French freedom. Gambetta was a Jew, and when he worked for and established in the French Republic freedom and equal opportunities for all, he represented the real Jewish spirit.

To instil race hatred and religious intolerance is a crime against this country. Public opinion should abominate it and national laws should punish it.

More Truth Than Poetry

"Cheer up: Xmas is coming."
BLUE LAWS

The Kicker

By S. E. KISER

"THESE optimists bore me," he said;
"I hate their eternal insisting
On thinking all's lovely ahead;
They set my nerves jangling and twisting.
I claim that the world is all wrong;
It's a hodgepodge of dreary mischances;
Life's merely hard work, and too long;
The hopeful are walking in trances.

"WHO ever has got what he wanted
At the time when he wanted it most?
This talk about being undaunted
Is only a mouth-filling boast.
When you say you have learned to be leaving
Past sorrows and troubles behind,
I know you are either deceiving,
Or afflicted by weakness of mind.

"THE world is a dismal old dump
And Fate is uncertain and surly;
The man who loves life is a chump,
For the lucky are those who die early!
The effort's too great for the game;
With all of the hardships and sighing
It seems idiotic to claim
A stubborn aversion to dying."

A BRICK barely missed him, in tumbling
From a coping a hundred feet high;
He trembled and ceased to be grumbling,
He forgot to be anxious to die.
"My Goodness," he said, "it was lucky
That I didn't get that on the head!"
And I praised him for being so plucky—
For his gladness in not being dead.

IT MIGHT BE WORTH TRYING

Kolchak, Denikin and Wrangel, having been recognized by the allies, have all bumped the bumps. Perhaps the allies could wreck Bolshevism by recognizing it.

Letters to the Editor

Low Rates for Service Men

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—I read with great interest the letter received by you from the "Gobs" at Charleston, S. C.

Why don't the Hearst papers conduct a nation-wide campaign to have the Interstate Commerce laws changed so that the boys in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marine Corps could have the one-cent a mile rate restored.

As the matter stands now, no railroad could give this rate even if they were favorable toward the idea. The Interstate Commerce laws state that they cannot charge any more to one person than to another for rendering the same service.

Let us do what we can for the boys, so that we can have a contented fighting force. There is not a finer person on God's green earth than a sailor, he is ever willing to help and stand by humanity as shown in recent events occuring in the Mediterranean.

Let us get behind them, we who have the advantage, the advantage denied them, the vote.

By K. C. B.

ON SUNDAY.

WE WERE invited.

TO A turkey dinner.

THAT HAD been postponed.

FROM THANKSGIVING Day.

AND THE host.

WAS A kindly gentleman.

WITH A soft voice.

AND A great desire.

TO PLEASE everyone.

AND NOT interrupt.

IN THE conversation.

AND ALONG about 2.

WE ALL sat down.

AND I could see.

THE HOST was worried.

AND AFTER a while.

IT OCCURRED to me.

HE WAS seeking quiet.

THAT HE might say grace.

OR ASK a blessing.

UPON THE food.

THAT LAY before us.

AND AFTER a while.

THERE CAME a lull.

AND HE lowered his head.

AND I lowered mine.

AND AN actor person.

RIGHT OPPOSITE me.

LOOKED ACROSS at me.

AND SAID to me.

"WHAT'S THE matter with your neck?"

AND I raised my head.

AND SAID to him.

AND TO every one else.

"IF YOU had any sense.

"YOU WOULD have noticed.

"A LONG while ago.

"THAT OUR friend, the host.

"IS TRYING to say grace."

AND AFTER that.

WE GIGGLED a little.

AND THEN grew quiet.

AND WAITED the blessing.

AND IT began.

AND A nice old gentleman.

WHO WAS somebody's father.

AND VERY deaf.

AND HADN'T any idea.

WHAT WAS going on.

RAISED UP his voice.

AND SAID.

"I SEE by the papers.

"THAT PRESIDENT Harding.

"IS A wizard at bridge."

AND ANYWAY.

WE ATE our dinner.

WITHOUT ANY blessing.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH YOUR NECK?"

I THANK you.
